Dear Sally,

We have had so much fun and some pretty crazy times together that I really don't know where to start. The first thing I'll say is how much your friendship means to me. It doesn't seem that I have only known you for not quite a year. It seems that I have known you all my life. It has really been fun this year with you in Tri-Tri-y and now we're both in Mademoiselles! I still think you should have tried out for cheerleading. I'll always remember those letters you sent to cheer me up while I was in Kentucky. And what about the night we were going to look for the Matland Youth Center? And the day we went to see "Room At The Top" and your car got locked up and you didn't even have a license! And the most important thing, you introducing me to Butch. (I don't know wheather to be happy or sad about that one!) Anyway, Sally, we have come through a lot together and I hope we will have a thousand more things to remember this time next year. Just keep that wonderful personality, Sally, and I know you won't ever lack friends or fun. I could go on and on and on but I think you know by now how much I really think of you.

Your ever-lovin' "MAD" friend,
Peggy

P.S.

What ever happened to L.B.?

Sally,
 Enjoyed being in Home Co. Class with ya this year. Also enjoyed your ad-bills

FOREWORD

Go far back into time—back 30,000 years to the Reindeer Age. Stand in the place which will become part of France, near a river which in the distant future will be named Vézère. Look about. A wind softly rustles the leaves of the dense forest rolling down to the slowly winding river, tinted deep orange by the setting sun. A lone figure, his long hair tipped with bronze, moves carefully up the slope. On his bare shoulders he carries skins of oil; and in his hands he clutches earthenware pots, lumps of colored earth and a flaming torch. Stopping, he looks cautiously around. Then he disappears into a narrow hole in the nearby rock which conceals a hall-like cave. Using the oil and colored lumps, he produces a crude paint and, squatting on the rough floor, creates on the cave wall a likeness of a bison in hues of black, brown and orange. Surveying his work with satisfaction, he turns to go, leaving his art behind. Little does he know the vast importance of his primitive bison which centuries later will have evolved into written communication as we know it today.

It is almost impossible to realize that modern civilization could not exist without the written and the printed word. There would be no books, magazines, newspapers, records, calendars, music—no writing of any kind—only the inaccurate communication by word of mouth. The enormity of our dependence on written communication is, indeed, nearly incomprehensible.

Stressing this fact, a mural painting depicting the development of written communication was created by Ferdinand Warren expressly for the new Foote & Davies building in Atlanta, Georgia. With the generous cooperation of the Company, the yearbook staff was able to obtain transparencies of the panels from that mural.

Through the ages man's effort to communicate with others by use of picture, symbol and word has been the candle that lighted his civilization and culture. It is that same candle which has also lighted the way to education and life here at William R. Boone High School. As a tribute to the people and eras that made possible that candle, the staff has chosen the evolution of written communication as the timeless theme of the 1960 BOONE LEGEND.

*Sal,
Well the end of another

had some fun this year.
Don't forget the Modern dance & the flat tire
we had. We had some fun

Best of luck always to a real

Lally,

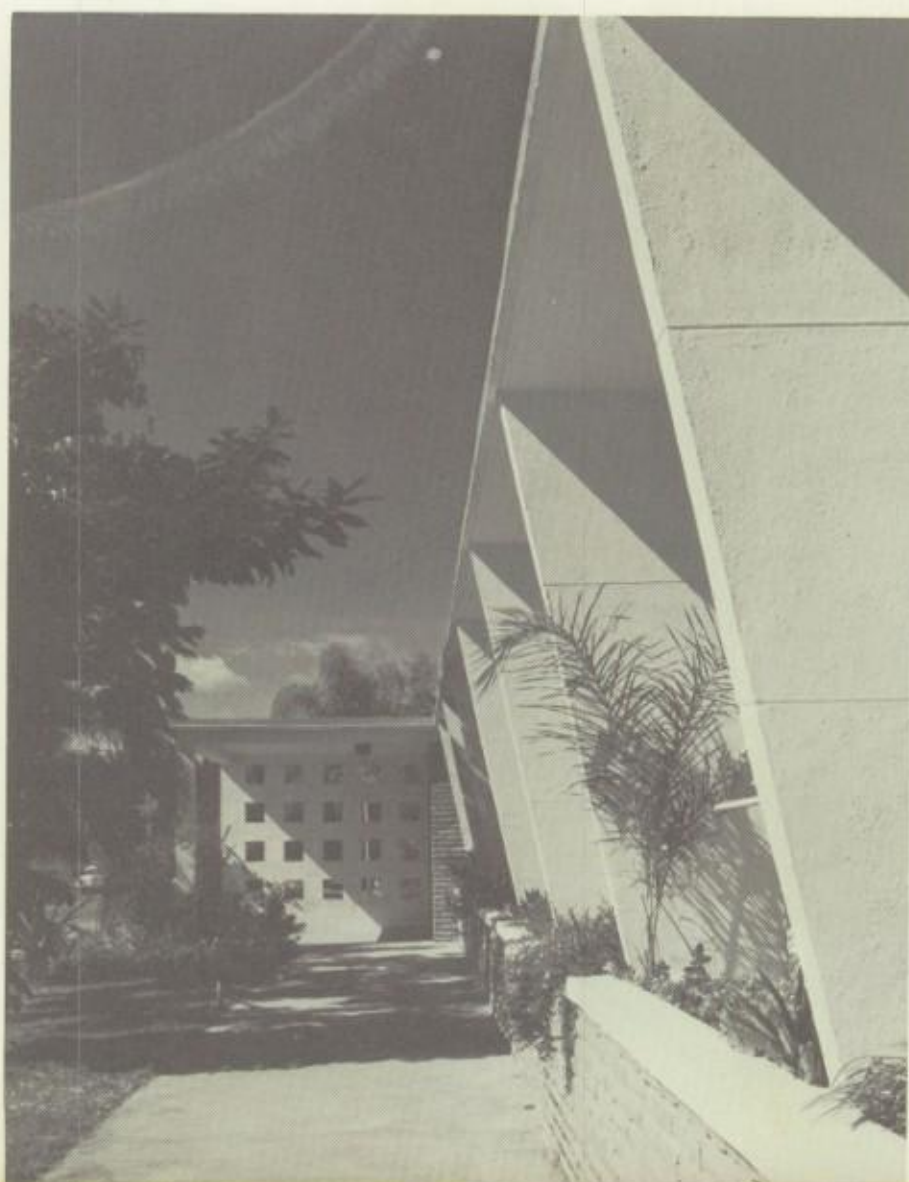

Braves Reflect on Form

In the brightness of morning the halls of Boone are filled with laughter and excited talk of students beginning another day.

The school is just another place in which a group of people gather for a common purpose. But with the quiet of late afternoon, the campus and buildings take on a new, almost magical appearance and mirror that which they represent—a channel for guidance, an avenue of learning, a way of life.

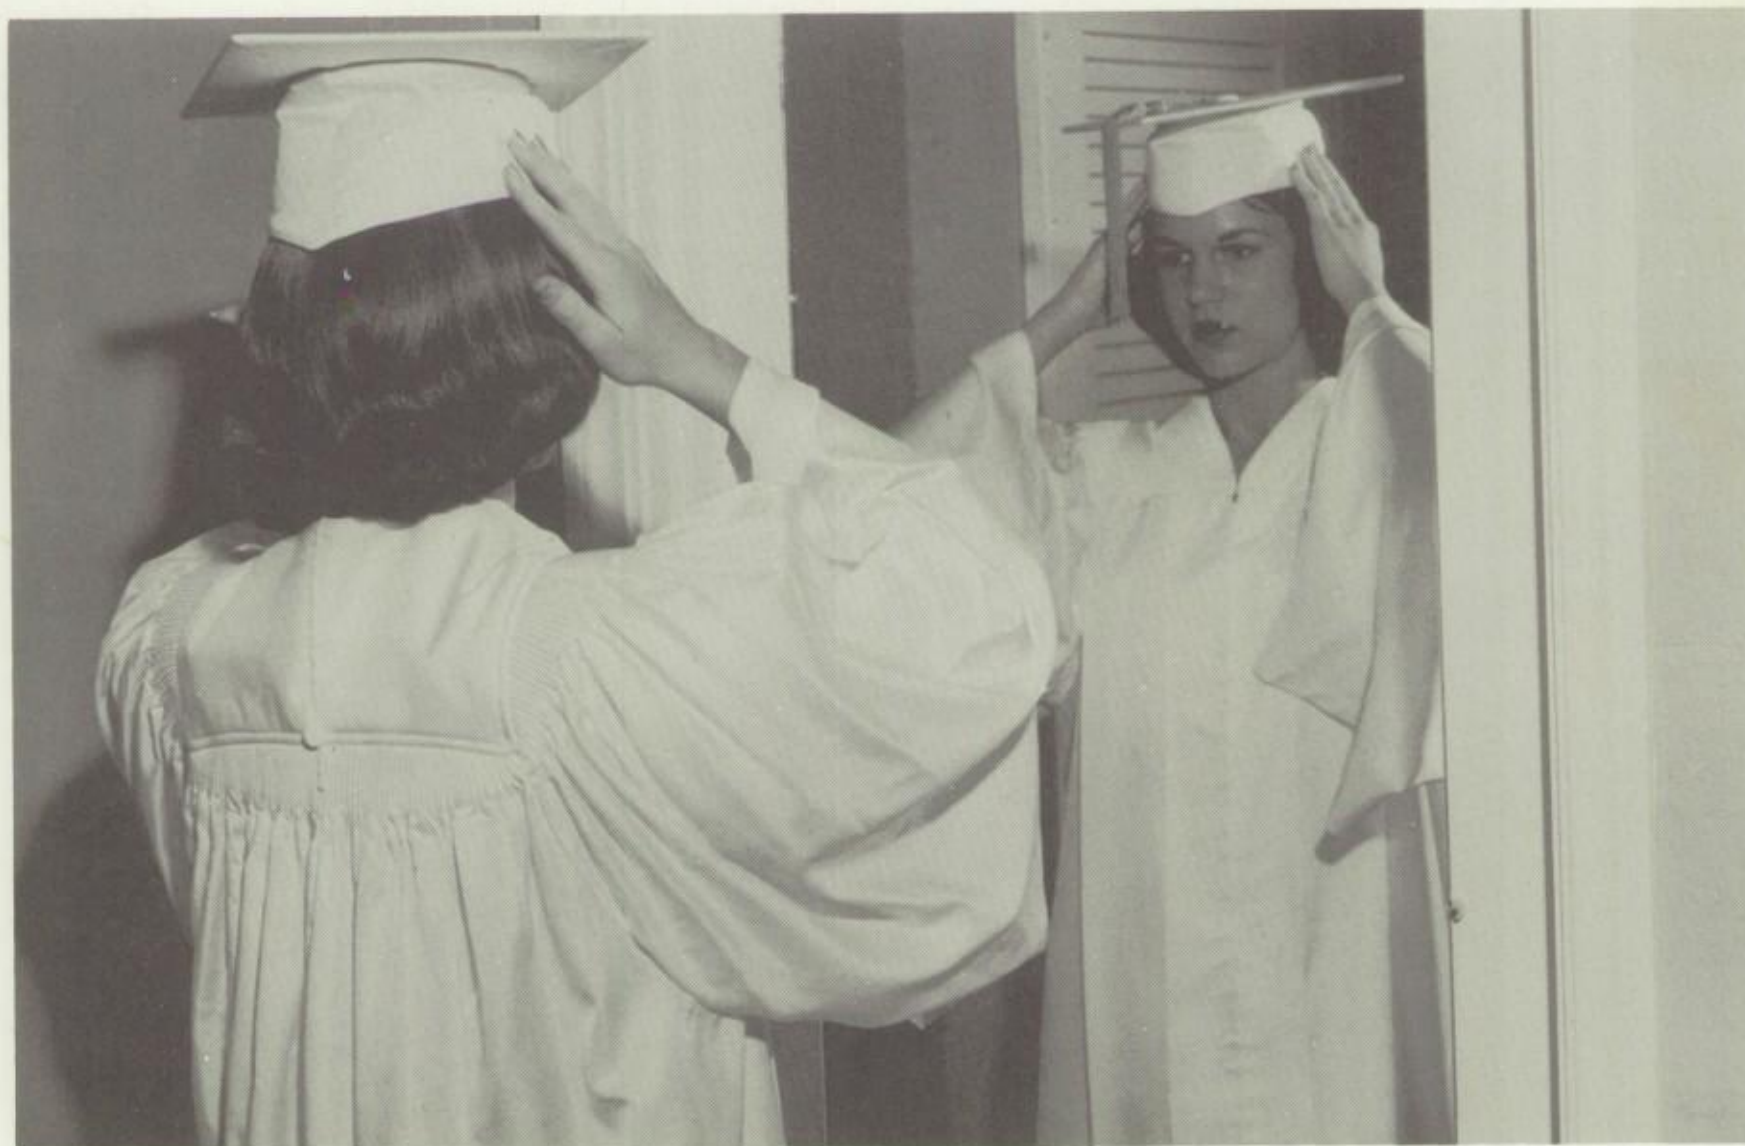

Dear Sally,
 Havn't it been one blast this year in H.E!!
 (Our little cooking girls)
 Hope to see you this summer
 Congrats on getting into MAD

Braves Find Fulfillment

You deserve it the best!

Coveted awards for work well done, your friend
 membership in an honorary society, inde pendence gained from the occupation one enjoys, long awaited wearing of caps and gowns—each represents a plateau reached in a student's life. Whether scholastically or vocationally, each young person works toward attaining his own special goal. With every congratulating smile and handshake comes a feeling of pride and fulfillment.

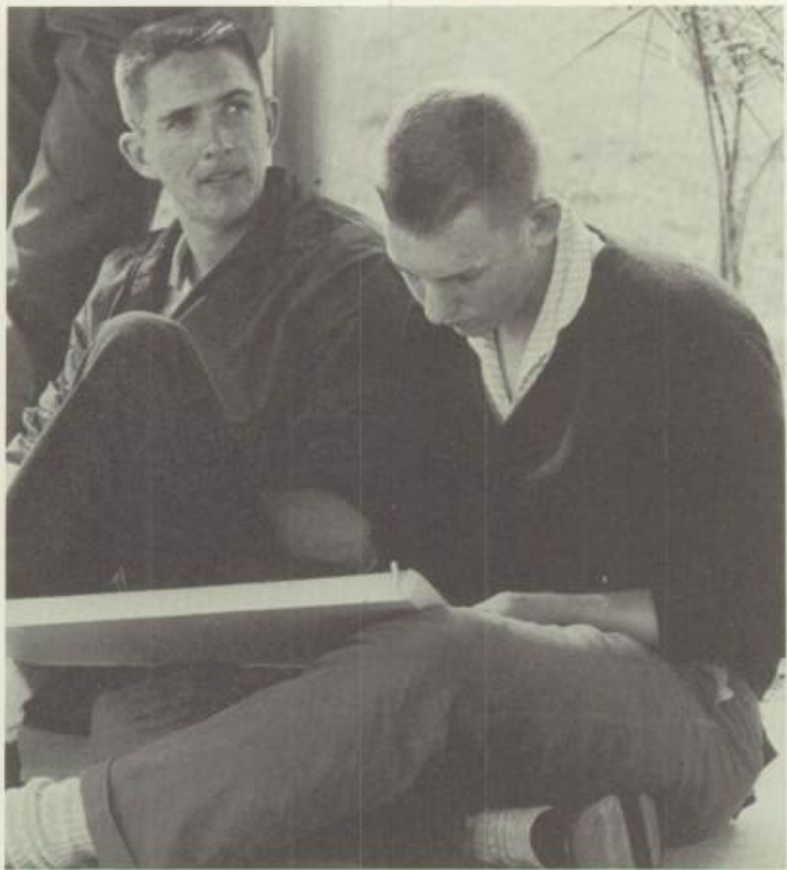

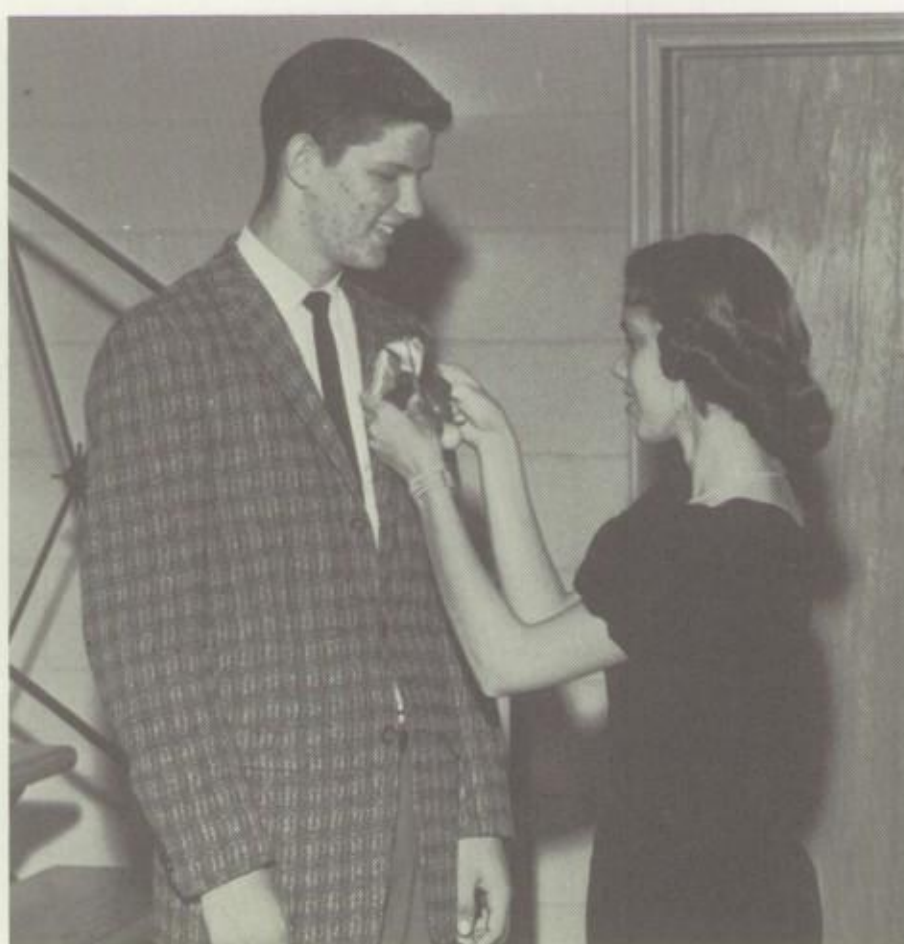

Braves Gain Friends

Sharing experiences and knowledge, small talk and hellos, faculty and students form happy associations during the year at Boone. By getting to know one another better, they bridge the gap of age and position. With the passing months acquaintances develop, filling a life with many memories of work and play together. Suddenly as the time comes to leave, associations assume their true value as lasting friendships, illuminated by loyalty, understanding and trust.

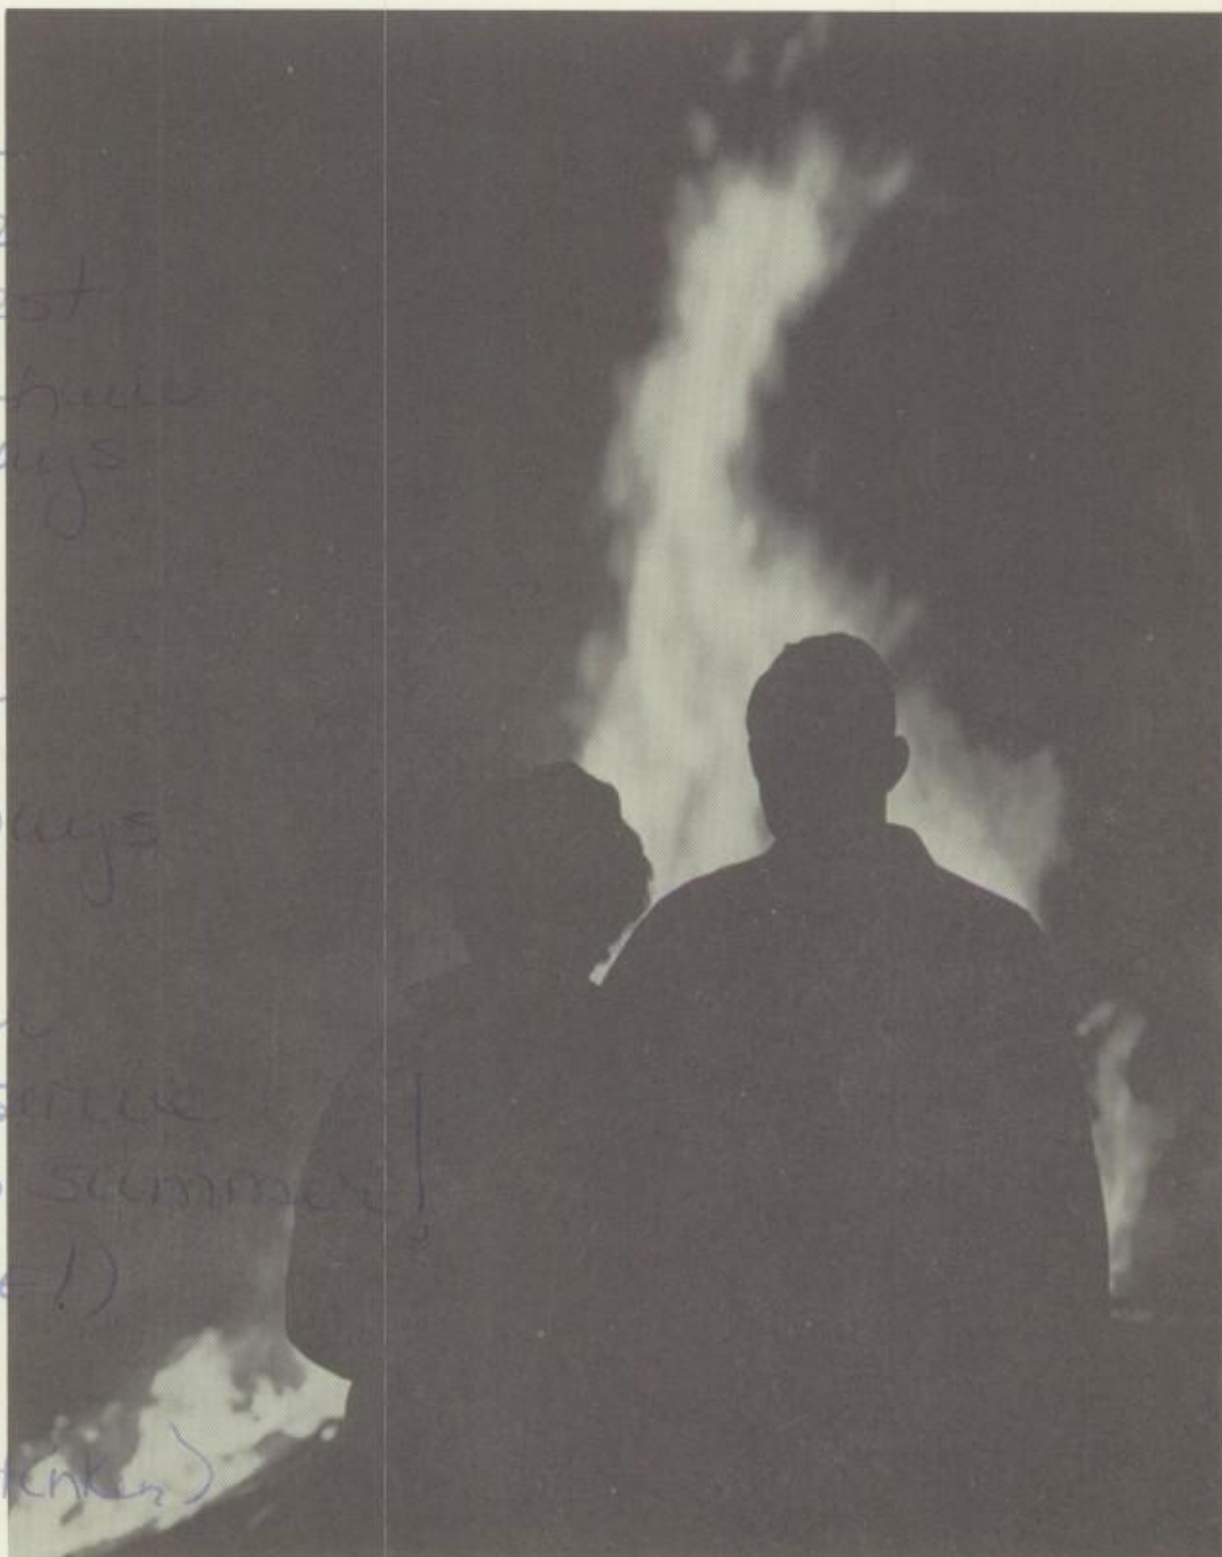

Braves Remember Features

Throughout the year special events spark school life. Spirit is aroused by the excitement of the opening football game and is heightened with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. The zany reversal of social duties during Twirp Week is soon righted, and the Junior-Senior Prom climaxes a season of fun. These features add zest to the school year, making it even more memorable.

Sally,
 You left me so much room to write on I guess don't know what to do! You have one of the greatest personalities I have ever seen. Always remember the rowdy parties,
 how could you forget huh?!!!
 I pray you always have the very best in life for you truly deserve
 it. See ya this summer!
 Be good (joke!)
 Love ya
 Shirley (Sinker)
 MAE

Braves Dabble in Fancy

Little things grow into some of the more remembered moments in a school year. Seemingly insignificant events are tucked carefully away to be recalled with a fondness later. The playful glee of a day at a lake, the noisy fun of the fair, the flaming beauty of a bonfire—all these fill the minds of students with a panorama of colorful memories. The intangible and diverse combine to brighten days and lighten hearts.

Braves Look to Future

Gradually, experiences of this important year become echoes of the past.

Students unconsciously change, grasping more firmly a hold on responsibility.

A little wiser, they now step confidently forward to that which awaits them in a life as citizens of the world's greatest democracy.

ORGANIZATIONS...

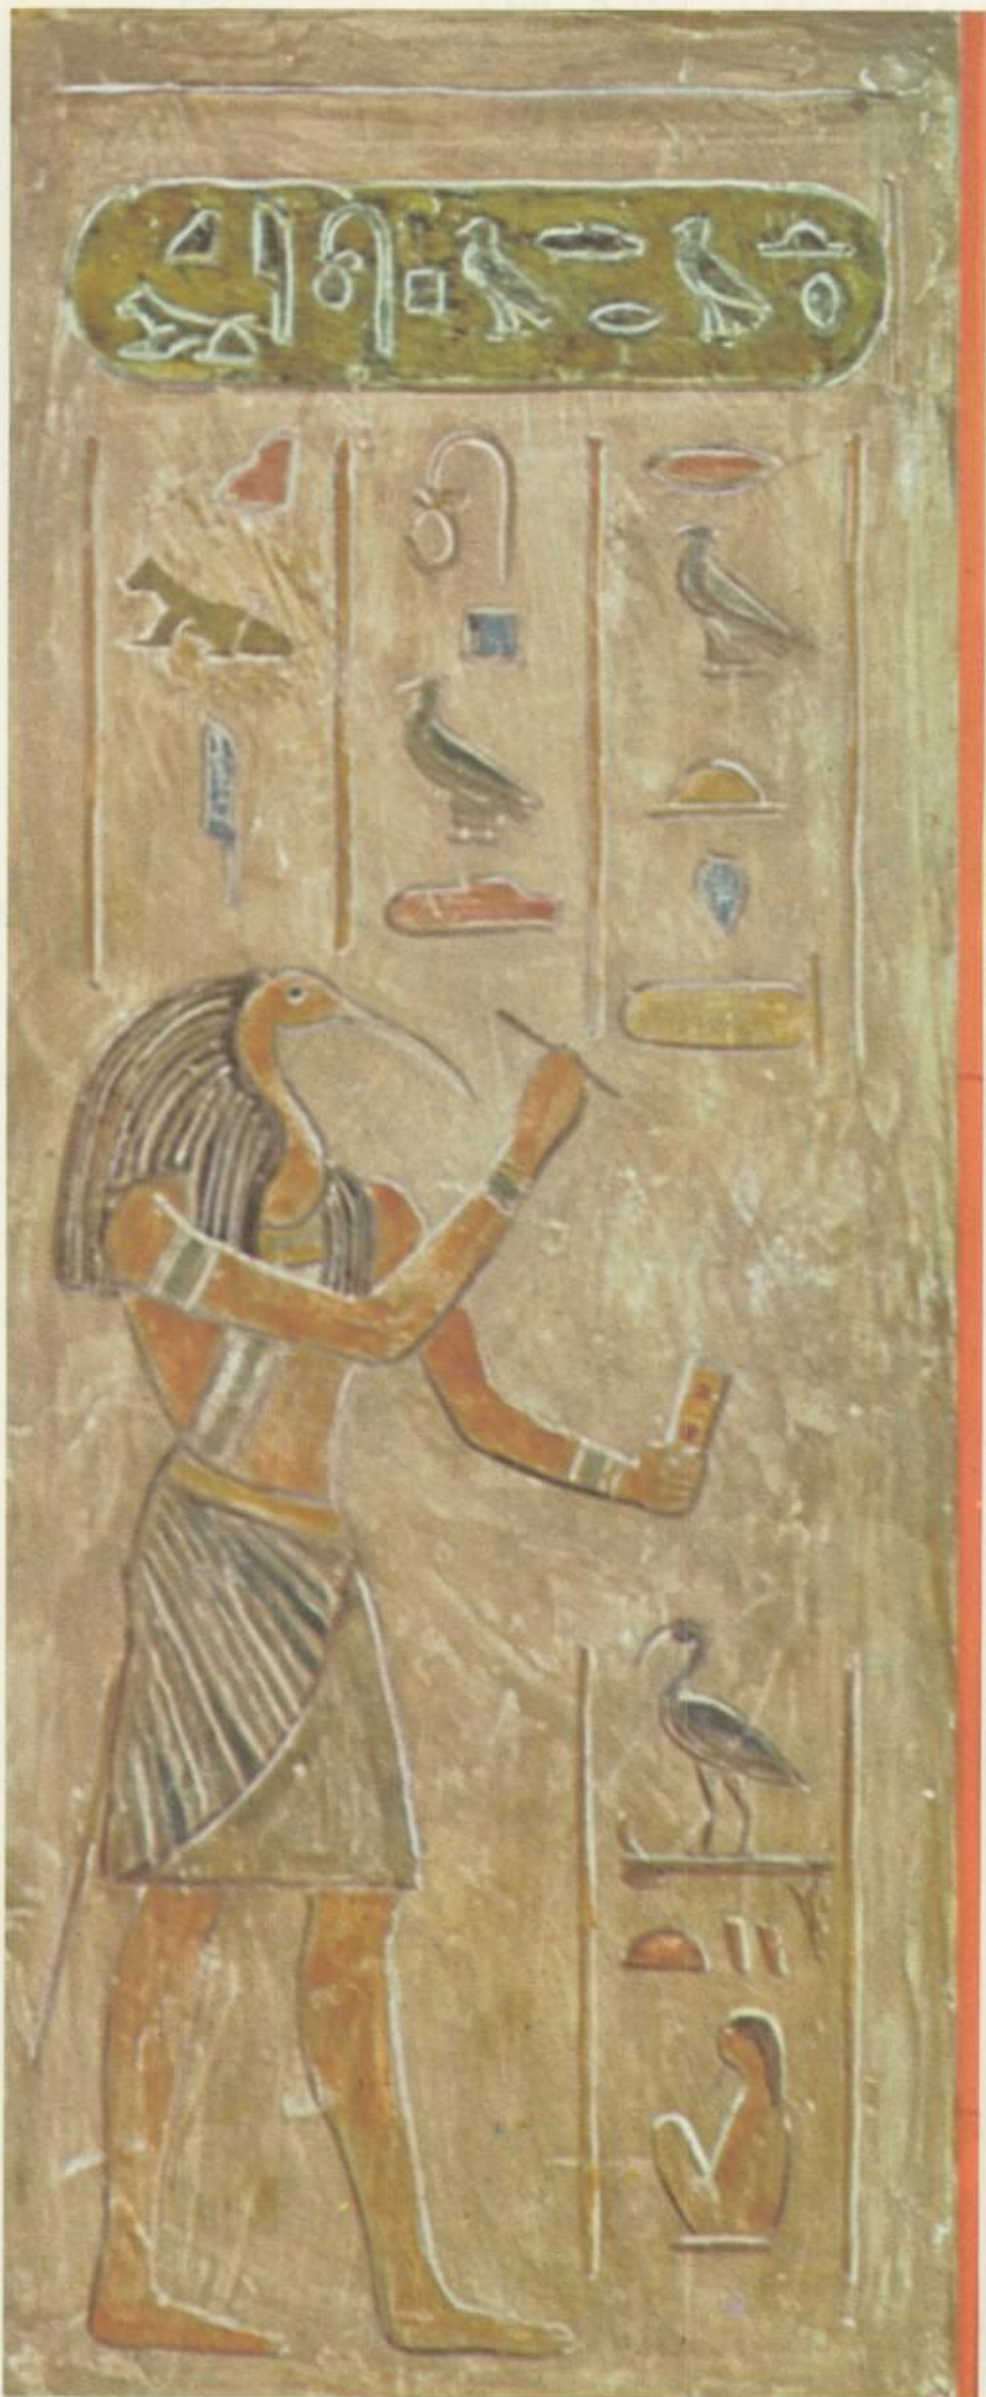

Speed 27,000 years through time to the Copper Age. Stop beside the river Nile, snaking its way through the shifting sands of Egypt. Pass by the Sphinx and pyramid tombs to the nearest temple. Step inside. Slender pillars topped with stone lotus blossoms support the dark ceiling, while on the shadowed walls are cut strange symbols and pictures. Near the front of the temple stands a high priest overseeing the work of a slave who chisels more symbols into the hard wall. An outgrowth of the crude bison, these hieroglyphics are one of man's first attempts at composing an alphabet.

With the beginning of writing, came the organizing of men into groups. The earliest known forms of organizations were religious cults composed of men drawn together by common religious beliefs, such as those of the Egyptian Temples.

Organizations today entail much more than religion. They extend from the vast governmental systems of nations to the small but significant service and honorary groups found here at Boone. Just as the temples played an important part in the lives of the ancient Egyptians, so organizations are even more vital in the lives of students today. Socially and academically, students' growing needs are partially satisfied through organizations.

New 50-Star Flag to Fly over Campus, Compliments of N. H. S.

"Last name first" . . . This phrase echoed through the minds of National Honor Society members at the beginning of school. They then undertook their main project, preparing student directories.

In January old N.H.S. members tapped juniors and seniors who qualified by scholarship, leadership, character, service and citizenship to enter N.H.S.

On Awards Day the N.H.S. presented a 50-star flag to the school. To conclude its activities for 1960, the Society gave a banquet for old and new members.

Torch Society Promotes Leadership, Character, Citizenship

Hoping they had been able to uphold the necessary B average, Torch Society members met once every six weeks to record their grades. Consisting of former members of the National Junior Honor Society, the Torch Society continued to promote desirable traits —leadership, character, citizenship—and to give needed volumes to the school library.

Striving for admission to National Honor Society, earnest Torch Society members made 1960 an active and worthwhile year for themselves.

Voodoo Dolls, Secretarial Work Keep Gregg Writers Occupied

Gregg Writers alias witch doctors! These ambitious club members spent enjoyable hours in the creation of gay red and white voodoo dolls. Donned by nearly all of the student body before the Boone-Edgewater clash, the dolls were worn in hope of "hexing" the cross-town rival. Money accumulated for this sale paid for the club's two initiations. During January seniors with a B or better average received their invitations, while prospective juniors entered at the close of the school year.

These diligent students also gained experience by doing secretarial work for the faculty.

President Diane Vines assists Agriculture Instructor Robert Ford as part of a Gregg Writers' school service campaign.

"Congratulations!" In a colorful induction, Pat Jones accepts initiate Donna Walker into the Gregg Writers Society.

N. F. L. Encourages Distinct Speaking, Logical Thinking

"Labor Control" this year became an important topic for debate among students in the N.F.L.

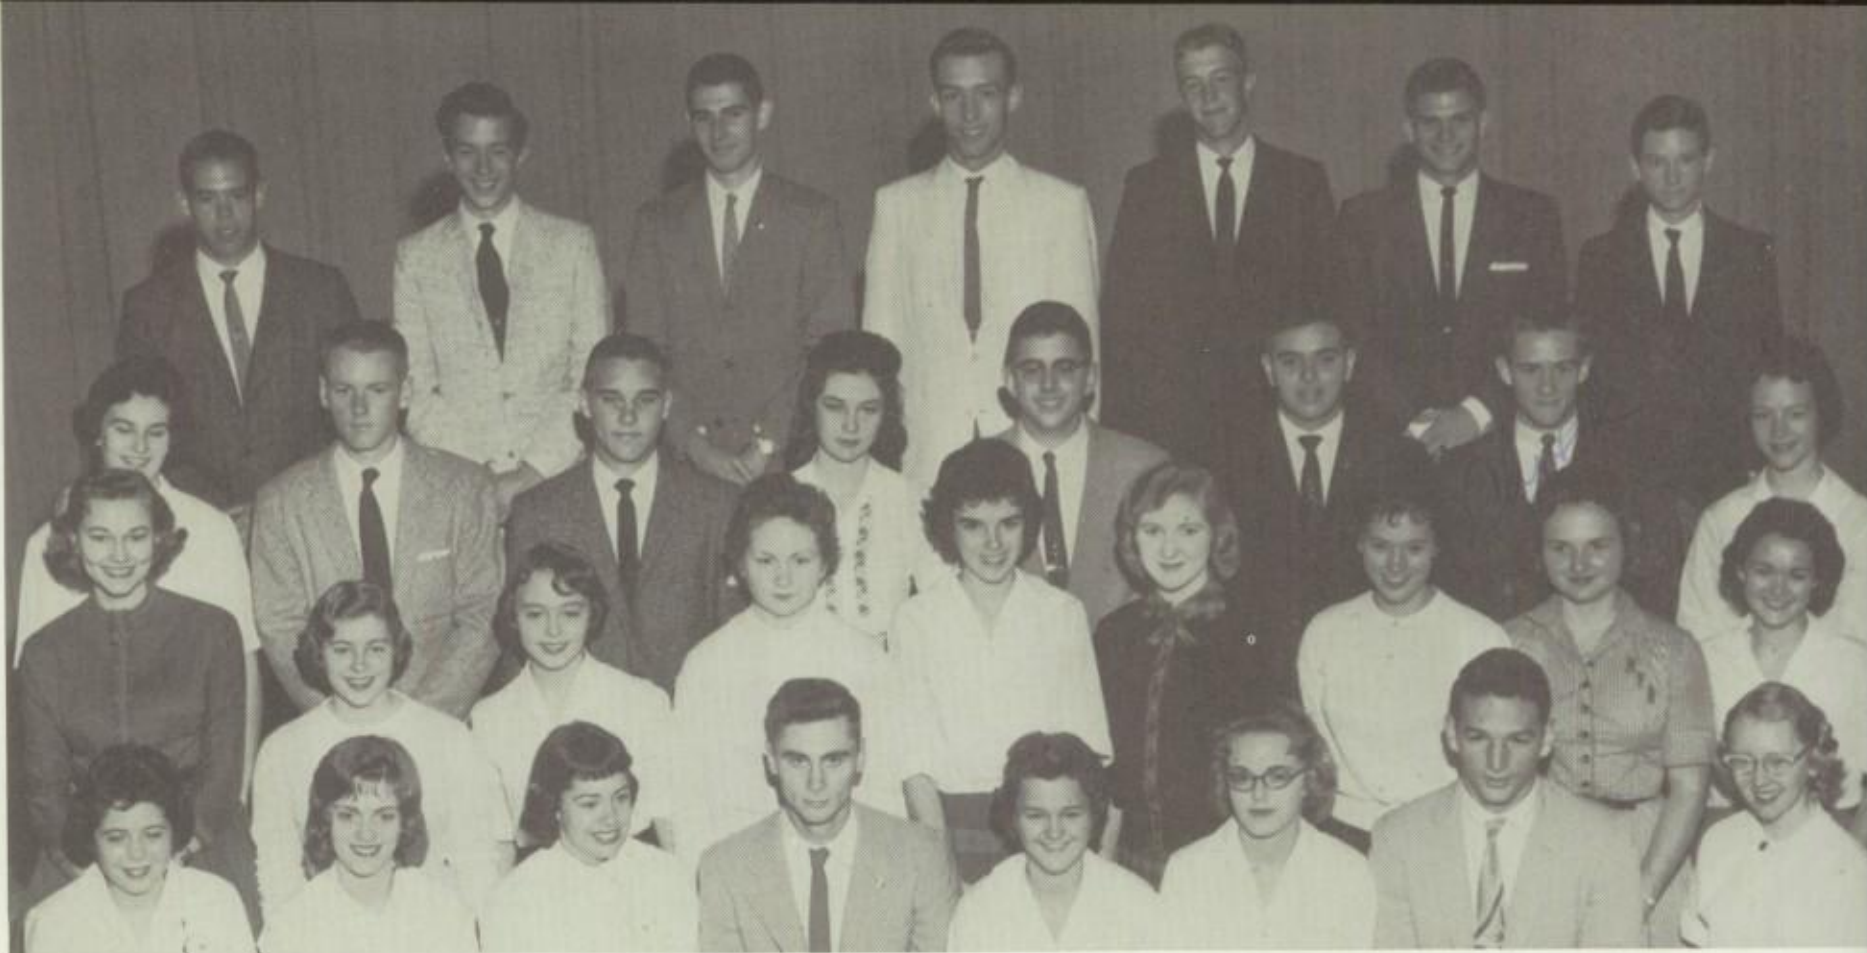

Acquiring points for their participation in oratories, these fourteen members spoke at various debates, tournaments and congresses. Gaining valuable self-expression, poise and proper enunciation, they also lectured at civic clubs and other city organizations. Since the National Forensic League is an honorary speech society, only students having superior grades are admitted into the club.

Outstanding Journalists Win Honors in Quill and Scroll

An international honor society, Quill and Scroll, granted membership to 25 Boone students this year. Rated in the upper one-third of their class, these members were chosen for their superior work in the fields of newspaper and yearbook journalism. In an age when great importance is placed on capable men and women who can to best advantage accurately and effectively assemble, interpret and report facts, these students represent the potential professional journalists of the world of tomorrow.

Student Council Builds, Maintains High Standards for School

A Senior Sidewalk and the Homecoming Parade rated high on the agenda for this year's Student Council. Besides providing both delightful and interesting activities for the student body, the council also led the way in beautifying the school grounds. By assigning plots to individual clubs, the students had a part in keeping the campus attractive.

Forming the Student Council were the Senate, made up of the presidents of the clubs, and the House, composed of representatives from each of the first period classes. Both Houses strove continually to build and maintain high standards for the school.

Planning for the Awards Day program is an important job for Erik Van Brero, Judy Trulock, Mr. Magarian, Johnny Odem.

Armed with amplifier and cash box, S. C. President Erik Van Brero braves swarms of students seeking football tickets.

Junior Council Sponsors Parties and Play for Student Body

The 1960 Junior Council was represented by 22 hard-working students chosen from English III classes.

These busy Juniors were responsible for the Homecoming Dance after the Miami-Edison game. The gaily decorated gym provided an appropriate setting for the reigning Homecoming queen, Sydney Ward. Their class play, Born Yesterday, was a successful production and helped fill their treasury. Ivey's Day, at which time Boone students assisted in the sales department of Ivey's Dept. Store, was efficiently organized by the Council. Opening doors, carrying books and otherwise assuming male chivalry, Boone girls ushered in amusing Twirp Week. Climaxing the entire year of activities was the Jr.-Sr. Prom.

"Moon Over Miami," theme for Homecoming Dance, shapes up as Tina Melton, Kay Hudson and Linda Tart cut trimmings.

A slap of rage sends Toni LeProhon tumbling as she, Mackie Goss and Kay Hudson enact a scene from the Jr. Class Play.

Sophomore Council Assumes Management of "Baby Braves"

The reign of the Sweetheart King and Queen began in 1959 and ended with a successful year in 1960. Members of the Sophomore Class, with the help of their Council, arranged this exciting event.

Thirty-six active members of the Sophomore Council, chosen from their English II classes, had the tremendous job of planning Sophomore Class activities. Promoted by the Student Council, orientation introduced the recent Braves to their future Alma Mater and gave them an opportunity to meet upper-classmen. Also included on their agenda were their class play, Seventeenth Summer, and the Heart Hop.

"Becoming familiar with the library is important," explains Miss McGlinchy to sophomores John Jackson and Diane Clark. →

Boone Civitans Preside Over Florida Civitan Convention

"Fresh fruitcake for sale! Only a dollar a pound!" This statement became familiar to the Braves as the Civitan members embarked upon one of their several money-making projects—the sale of fruitcake. They then donated a part of the proceeds from this sale to the American Cancer Society. Living up to their slogan, "Builders of good citizenship," they also participated in other worthwhile school projects.

With the assistance of the Art Club, the Civitans planned and designed the Indian Brave for the outside wall of the gymnasium. In addition, the club, with the help of other Boone organizations, maintained a neat and orderly campus.

Finally came the most awaited Civitan event—the Christmas Inaugural Ball! Climaxing this exciting occasion at the Orlando Garden Center was the coronation of their lovely queen, Diane Flowers.

Working with Optimist Club, Demo Hi-Y Raises Standards

Demo Hi-Y members strove to uphold high Christian standards in their many activities of 1960.

To prepare Camp Wewa for summer campers, Hi-Y'ers spent a Saturday painting cabins there. They also helped the Optimist Club in a yearly Christmas tree sale, did clerical work and ran errands for the local Y.M.C.A. office and gave a banquet for graduating seniors. In addition, delegates from the Hi-Y attended bi-monthly Optimist luncheons which were held at the Driftwood Cafeteria.

Hi-Y members initiated the plan for recognizing Orlando's football champions by awarding them the Bragle, a statue half-Brave and half-Eagle. If approved by Edgewater's Hi-Y, this award will be presented at the end of the 1960 football season.

On a door to door project, Hi-Y members Mike Lawrence and Mike Woods sell Mrs. Fern Chennell a Christmas tree ticket.

← For the final step in becoming a member, Demo Hi-Y pledges attend the official initiation ceremony in the cafeteria.

Key Club Earns Money for Its Projects Through Honest Toil

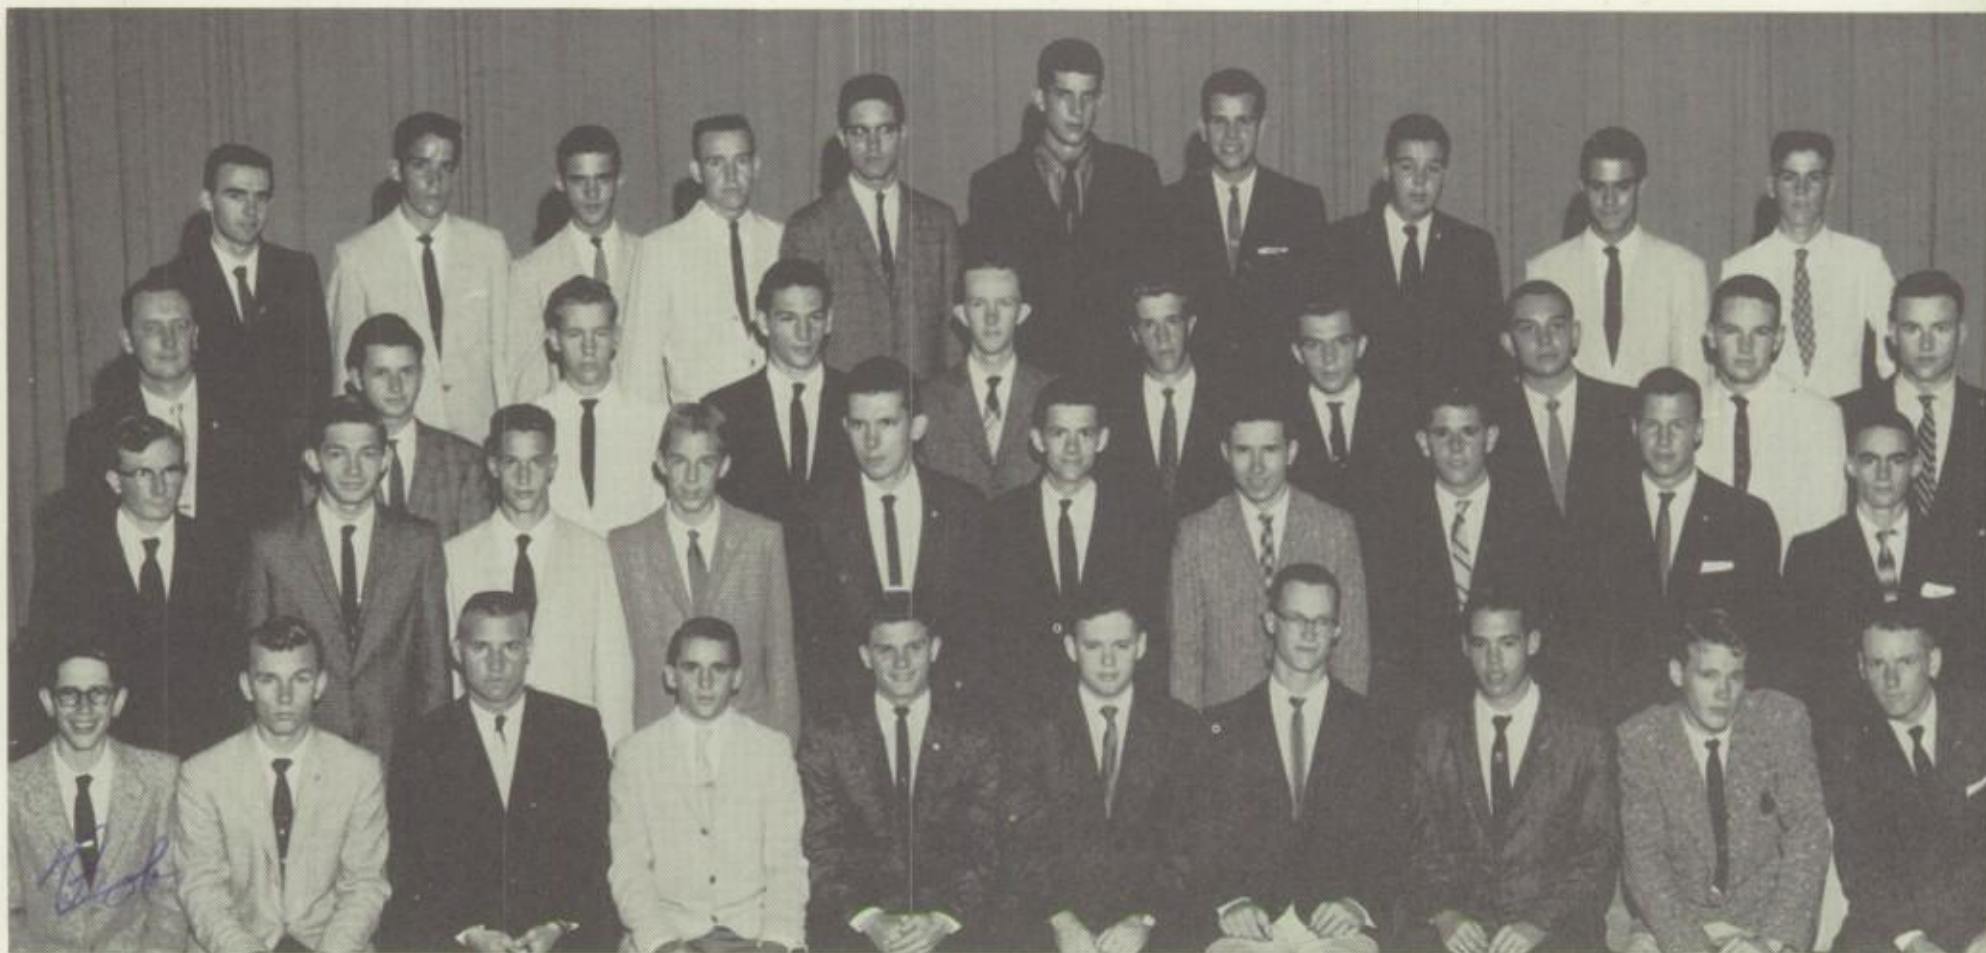

A slave sale in 1960?? To benefit the community as well as their organization, members of the Key Club offered their various services through the "slave sale." Kiwanis Club members "bid" on these students and in return, the boys mowed lawns, baby-sat and did housework and all types of gardening. Profits from this venture, in addition to those from a car wash, provided financial aid for delegates attending the District, State and International Key Club Conventions.

To assist the National Cancer Association in obtaining funds for future research, the club sponsored a campus-wide Cancer Drive.

The Key Club's social activities during 1960 included a skiing party and a hayride. In addition, selected senior delegates attended various luncheons at the Orlando Kiwanis Club.

Plentiful Projects of Wheel Club Prove Most Profitable

"Ugh" was a common expression used by many of the Wheel Club pledges on the night of the initiation ceremonies. As they downed various concoctions prepared by old members, the plebes climaxed a hectic week of initiation. Then qualified for membership in the club, the boys looked forward to a year of fun and service to the school and the community.

Under the direction of their sponsor, the Rotary Club of Orlando, the Wheel Club undertook several Christmas benefits this year. Other rewarding projects they participated in were improvement of the school grounds, a Beatnik Dance and Boone's annual Student-Faculty Basketball Game. These activities served to show both the school and community that the Wheel Club is a club of high ideals and merit.

After a week as "lowly" pledges, serious Wheel Club initiates finally become members as they take the club's oath.

Profitable Projects Enable Mier Tri-Hi-Y to Aid Community

Selling colorful pep badges preceding each of the football games proved a profitable venture for the Ruth Mier Tri-Hi-Y. The girls gave the profits from these sales, combined with earnings from their pre-Christmas candy sale, to the Y.M.C.A. World Service program. With another part of the money the mem-bers helped in financing the trip to the Y.M.C.A. World Conference in Holland and a tour of Europe for one delegate chosen from Orange County.

Among their many activities during the Yuletide Season were caroling at the Old Folks' Home in Orlando and the collection of canned foods for needy families in Orange County.

Each of the members worked "to create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school and commu-nity high standards of Christian character."

Hoe down a palm? Dianne Vines, Kathy Sanborn, Jolene Warren and Sharon Smith do just that on the club plot.

Taking pot luck, Sue Chennell and Kay Allsbrook are served by President Susan Tuthill at Tri-Hi-Y's Christmas Supper.

Anne Bruce Tri-Hi-Y Daily Pledges Service to Others

"Service our watchword is"—this line from the Anne Bruce Tri-Hi-Y Hymn well typified the club.

Consisting of 65 junior girls, the Hi-Y members pledged to help others through their good deeds. By volunteering their services in various activities, the girls gained points of which at least ten were necessary to retain membership. The Hi-Y'ers earned their points by attending meetings every two weeks, assisting in the Cancer Drive and by working after school in the T.B. Clinic. They also attended the State Convention in Tampa and participated in the sale of colorful orange and white pillows. For special entertainment, they were honored once a month by different guest speakers. On one particular occasion Pat Flesher, manager of Pat Flesher Modeling & Finishing School, gave the girls an interesting talk on the importance of good grooming.

Addition must come easy to Louise Carter and Mary Gilmore as they calculate service points for the Tri-Hi-Y members.

Future Farmers Take Active Part in F. F. A. Day at Tampa Fair

Clearing out the citrus grove at Boone provided a challenge to the Future Farmers of America. The 55 members developed leadership, cooperation and citizenship while practicing the principal concepts of agriculture. The boys acquired additional farming knowledge by participating in local and state contests, attending the convention in Daytona and observing the methods used at the Forestry Camp. At the Tampa State Fair the members learned more about the skills that are needed to maintain a successful farm. At the close of the year the Future Farmers gave a banquet honoring their parents.

Helping Homeless Children Characterizes Future Homemakers

Christmas was more fun this year for the children at the parental home. Cuddly teddy bears, colorful games and cheerful dolls were among the toys given them by the Future Homemakers.

During the year the club's 25 members sold cupcakes every other Tuesday at lunch time. In addition, they sponsored a carnival with a cake walk, promoted a car wash and baby-sat during fall elections so that parents could vote.

The main project for the F.H.A., with the assistance of the Future Teachers, was improving one of the faculty lounges in the 100-building.

Purpose of Future Nurses: Preventing Pain and Illness

Thinking about the future?? The 66 members of the Future Nurses seemed to be as they endured a hectic month of orientation at Orange Memorial Hospital. After learning the fundamentals of nursing through basic training, the girls were better able to decide whether or not they wanted to continue nursing as a vocation.

There were, however, many other projects in which the girls were active. These included the District Convention in Sanford and the State Convention in Pensacola. The members also gave a get-acquainted party for their mothers.

To climax the year, they sponsored a school-wide Cancer Drive to help raise funds for research.

Future Teachers Get Early Start in Chosen Profession

Readin', 'ritin', 'rithmetic . . . While assisting at Blanker Elementary School, Future Teachers learned that, besides the three R's, kindness and patience are important in working with children.

Using the profits from their annual project, the sale of brownies twice a month, they improved one of Boone's faculty lounges.

In addition to supporting the club's service and money-making projects, several prospective teachers journeyed to Daytona Beach for the State Convention of the Future Teachers of America. There they both enjoyed themselves and gained additional knowledge concerning their future profession.

Elimination of Careless Driving, Main Goal of Safety Club

"What make car?" inquires Linda Warner of Charles Davis as Trudie Peters records information during car registration.

With the aid of the Orlando Police Department, the Safety Club earnestly endeavored to "promote safety and prevent sorrow" by presenting its annual safety program to the student body. In addition, the club was responsible for the allotment of parking lots available to teachers as well as students. Traffic control and the auto-safety inspection were other projects the club conducted on the Boone campus.

Aware of the tragic results of careless driving, the club invited membership of anyone interested in helping to prevent both minor and major accidents.

G. A. A. Increases Good Will While Taking Part in Sports

Neither wind nor rain, goblins nor snakes were able to prevent the G.A.A. members from going on their campouts. These athletic girls enjoyed themselves as they engaged in a variety of sports—from tennis to softball. Sportsmanship ranked high with them; and while participating in both intramurals and intermurals, they increased the feeling of good will toward other teams and schools.

Selling programs at the football games helped the girls to obtain some of the 300 points which were necessary to earn a letter in sports. In addition to selling programs, the 50 members of the Girls' Athletic Association published for the new members a handbook containing the club's rules.

At the beginning of the year G.A.A. officers Judy Benner and Pat Sears prepare to distribute handbooks to members.

Classic Language Inspires Meetings of the Latin Club

"Who doesn't have to take the final in Latin?" This question was important to Latin Club members at the end of this year. Those members who placed in the top one-fourth in the National Latin Exam were exempt from their final test and were presented with certificates on Awards Day.

At their monthly meetings programs were based on the fascinating history of classic Latin. Members especially enjoyed viewing a film showing the magnificent features and traditions of Vatican City.

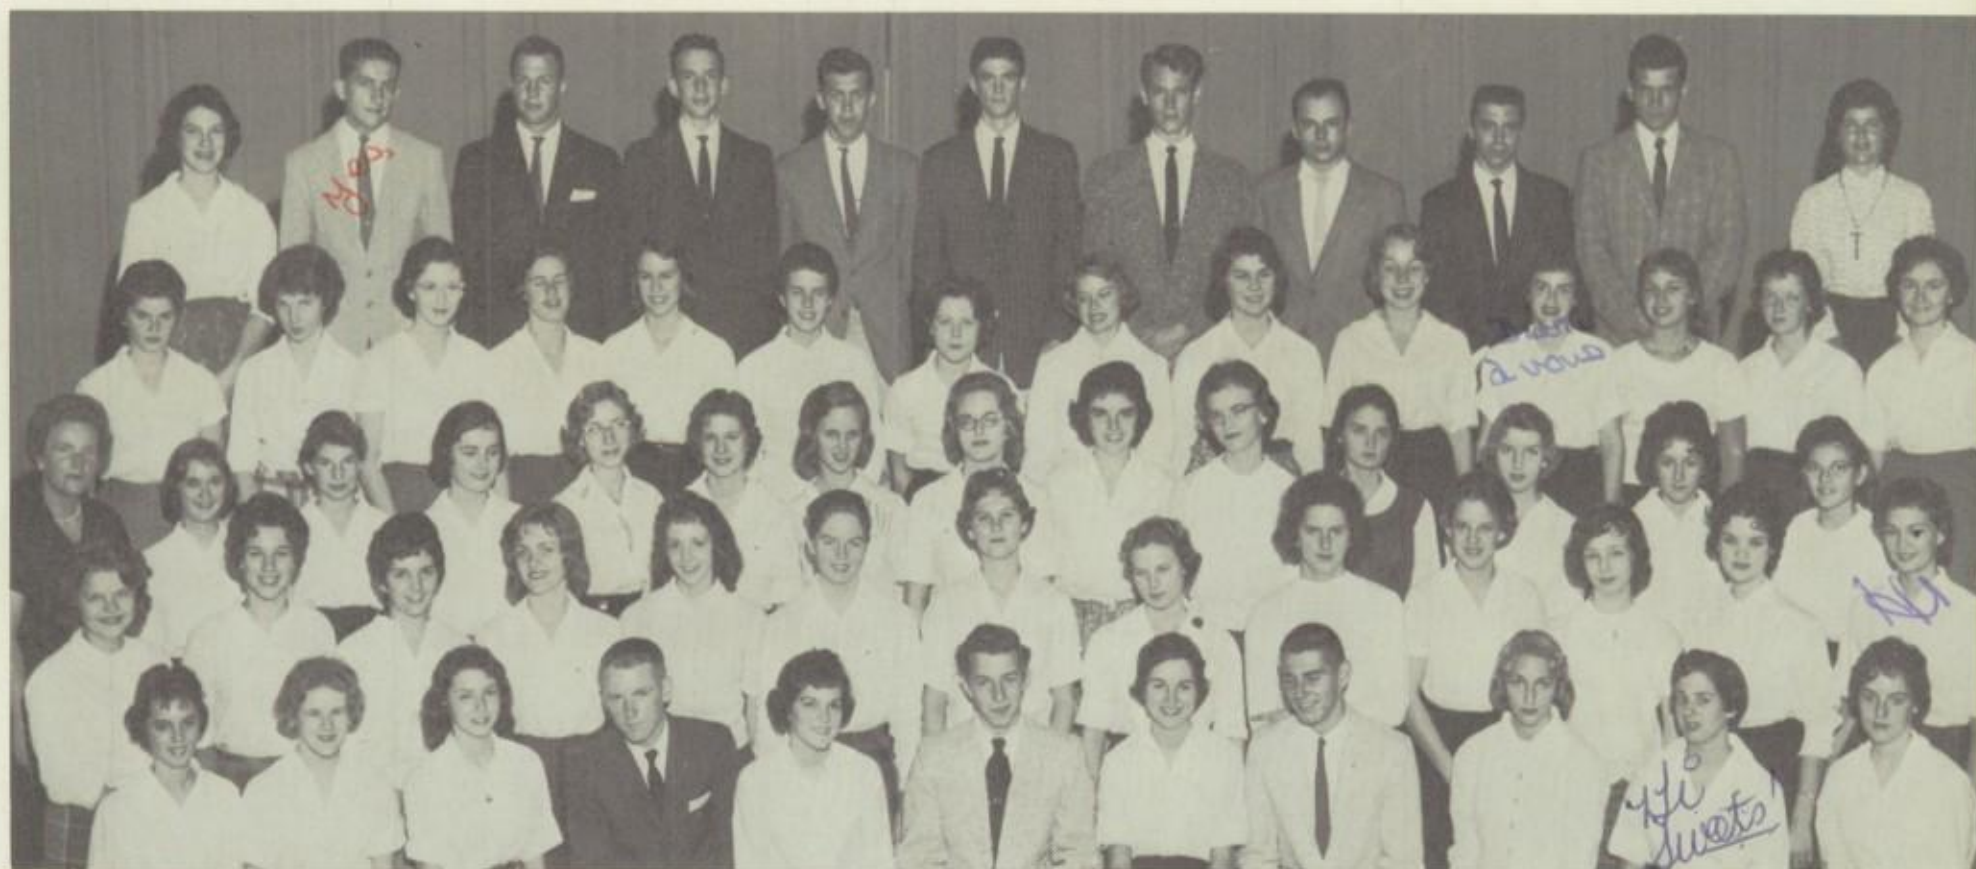

Cultural Latin Comes Alive For Members of the J. C. L.

Commemorating the old Roman Christmas, Saturnalia, the Junior Classical League presented a delightful rendition of that ancient feast. Candle trees, refreshments and the election of a royal court highlighted the exciting occasion.

The 40 active members of the J.C.L. also held a typical Roman banquet, corresponded with Latin students in foreign countries and participated in the Roman Forum held at Edgewater. These events helped acquaint other students with classical Latin.

French Club Members Display Initiative in All Projects

Gay chatter in a romantic tongue; a nervous "Je ne comprends pas" from a new member; the tapping of a gavel; the noise now a mere whisper; then silence—the meeting of Le Cercle Français has begun!

This active club is as gay and colorful as France itself. The remarkable imagination of its members enabled them to win the first prize for floats in the Homecoming Parade. Imagination was again displayed in the designing and making of white and orange corsages for the Boone-Edgewater game. Their other activities included keeping their plot on the campus clean, enjoying a savory meal at L'Auberge, a French restaurant, attending the annual Congres des Cercles Français de Florida and promoting outside contacts with French people.

Pan-Am Promotes Active Interest in Latin American Countries

¿Cómo está usted? This friendly greeting was often heard as members arrived for monthly Pan-American League meetings at school or at the sponsor's home.

The Pan-Am collected filler bands and covers from the classrooms and presented radios, won in filler band contests, to the rooms with the greatest number of bands. In the past five years 22 radios have been awarded by Pan-Am. In addition to radios, the club received cash prizes, two-thirds of which were divided equally between the Hi Lights and the Boone Legend. Another money-raising project was selling personal adhesive address labels.

A function of the league was the orientation of Latin American students. Meeting programs enabled members to learn about Spanish-speaking countries.

For its main social activity of 1960 the Pan-Am gave a party for members at Sanlando Springs.

Improving Writing Ability Object of Writers' Club

Poetry, themes, short stories—these are just a few of the areas covered by the members of the newly-organized Writers' Club.

After discussing and studying ways of improving writing skills, the members put the knowledge into practice by entering literary contests. Other activities included writing original compositions and themes, some of which were sent to publishers for constructive criticism. By expressing their ideas on paper, the students were brought one step closer to successful written communication with others.

Library Club Offers Prompt Service to Library Patrons

Shelving books, checking out literature, dusting, pulling magazines—these were but a few of the necessary jobs the seventeen library assistants performed daily. These Library Club members convened once every month to discuss problems dealing with the fundamentals of library procedure.

Besides their routine library work, the members attended the State Convention in Leesburg and two district conferences. Using the profits from their book-cover sales, they also donated a "lazy-susan" book case to the school library.

Saturn at midnight, Venus at six—both were studied by inquisitive members of the Astronomy Club during monthly viewing nights at the airport.

The Astronomy Club's purpose was promoting an interest in space. Debates spiced their meetings, and the question of flying saucers was never settled.

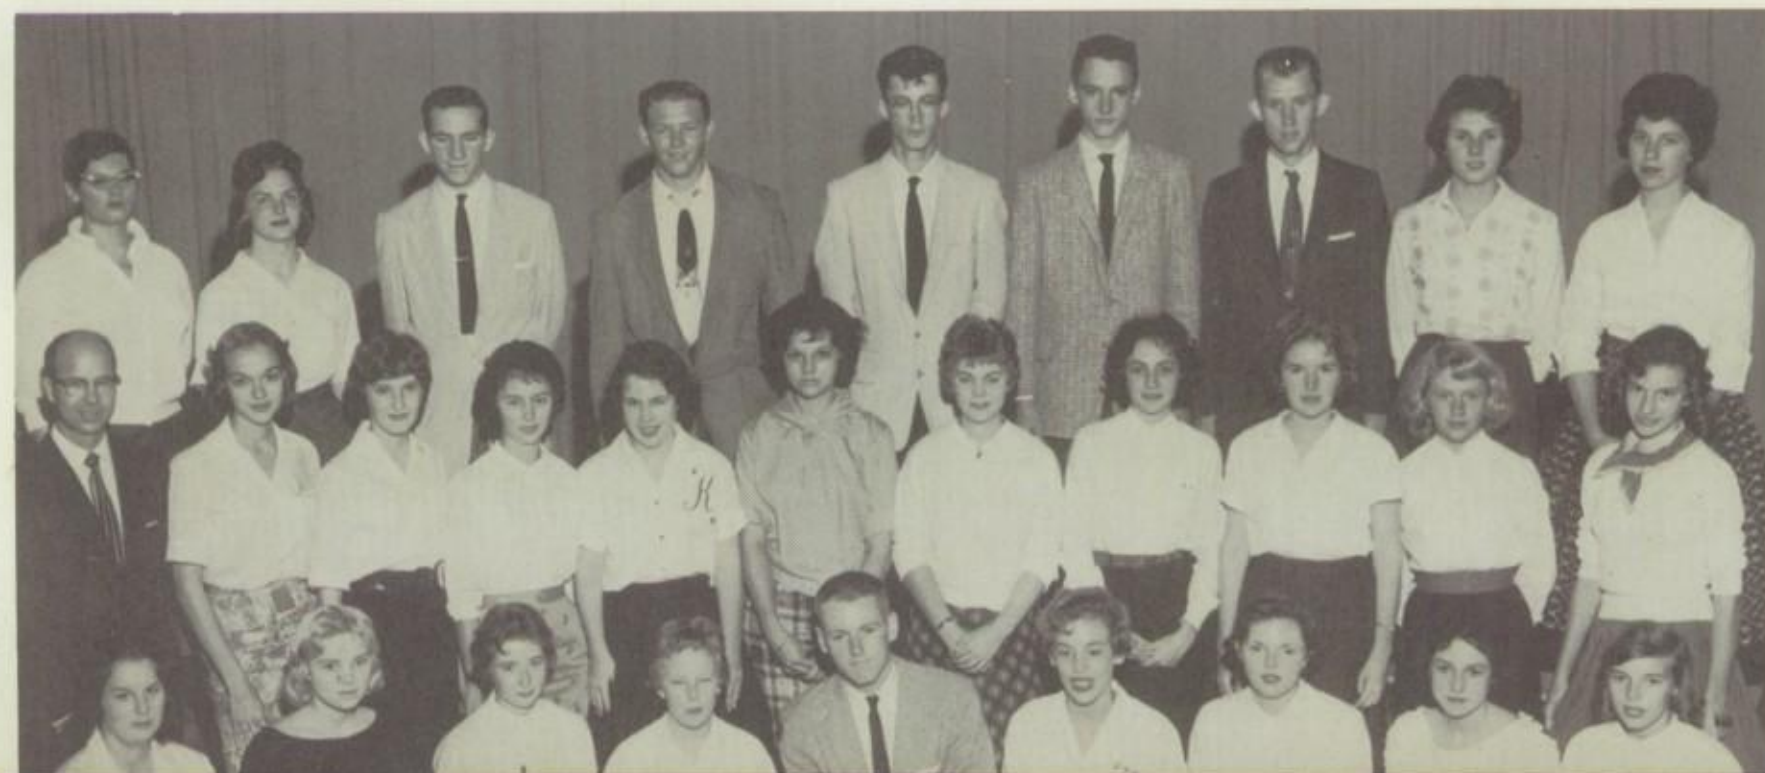

Industrious members also sold confetti at football games and gave the library a subscription to the monthly magazine, Sky and Telescope.

Members of Art Club Develop Appreciation of True Talent

Fried eggs in a palm tree, donkey in a storm—sometimes modern art makes one wonder! Interpretation of abstract paintings at various exhibits proved a challenge to the Art Club.

Excursions to Rock Springs and Daytona Beach supplied a variety of subject matter for the amateur artists. Joint meetings and displays with Edgewater not only helped create good will between the rival schools but also developed true art appreciation.

Service with a smile . . . In an effort to please their customers, members in the D.C.T. and D.E. clubs learned the proper and courteous methods of pleasing their patrons. Diversified Cooperative Training students learned fundamentals of office procedure, while Distributive Education members acquired experience in sales work. In addition to working in these part-time jobs, the students were required to complete two other academic subjects.

The 47 members attended the State Convention held at Daytona and the District Meeting in Winter Park in the hope of learning more about the activities of similar clubs. In March, 1960, both clubs sponsored a banquet honoring their employers. Members of the two clubs also decorated a colorful float in the annual Homecoming Parade.

An array of orange and white uniforms, a few bars of the Alma Mater and chants of “Scalp ’em, Braves, scalp ’em!” hailed the opening of football season. That was a busy time for the band as members prepared pre-game and half-time shows for home games. Performances during the Brahman Bowl Game and the Tangerine Bowl Game were important events included in the band’s schedule.

The hours spent in practicing their marching and playing greatly helped the band members. The Gator Growl in Gainesville and Orlando’s Christmas Parade provided an opportunity for them to demonstrate the fruits of their labor.

Moneywise, the band had a successful year. A sale of chocolate candy bars with personalized wrappers, in addition to a combined cakewalk and dance, increased the band treasury. Profits from those activities financed a trip to Washington, D. C., where the members played in the Cherry Blossom Festival.

The band members also gave a special evening concert, participated in a clinic with Edgewater and boosted school spirit by playing at pep rallies.

Chorus Sings Way to Success With Concerts and Contests

Working to uphold the achievements of the past, the Chorus of 1959-60 spent hours practicing the scales and various vocal exercises. A Christmas Oratorio was presented in the Auditorium by the A Cappella Chorus and was followed by special numbers from the Mixed and the Sophomore Girls' Choruses.

All three groups participated in a candy sale in which they netted over $1000. This profit was used to help finance the trip to Daytona Beach in March for the District Concert. There the groups took an active part in the singing and sight reading contests. Those receiving a rating of "superior" were privileged to attend the State Concert in Tampa.

To complete a full schedule, the A Cappella presented a program for the United Council of Churches and later joined the other two groups in sponsoring a concert by the Florida State University Singers.

Music filled the auditorium as the A Cappella Chorus presented its first fall concert directed by Herman Bekemeyer.

Bi-Weekly Publication Keeps Braves Aware of School News

Throughout the Eighteenth Century the chief source of news for the citizens of England was The Tatler. Today in the Twentieth Century Boone students are informed of the school happenings through the bi-weekly publication, the Hi Lights.

Keeping the student body up to date on all campus activities requires hours of work by the staff during and after school and on Saturday mornings. To obtain ideas for putting out a commendable publication, staff members attended the F.S.P.A. Conference in Ft. Lauderdale while other students represented the Hi Lights at a conference in Tampa.

Making up a portion of the paper was the "Teen of the Week" column. In every issue, two outstanding students were spotlighted. Alumni news and information on local clubs were also a part of the make-up. New additions to the paper were the "Teacher to Europe" articles. These informal interviews helped others to become acquainted with Europe through the experiences of Boone teachers.

At the Awards Day program the Hi Lights Athletic Award was presented to Boone's All-Around athlete.

Terry Adkinson and Bobby Rudin bring the latest news to the student body by selling the newspapers in the classrooms.

Annual Earns Nation's Top Rating By Talent, Training

The 1959 Boone Legend is the first Central Florida high school yearbook ever to win the coveted All-American rating from the National Scholastic Press Association of the University of Minnesota.

After months of work and secrecy, the annual with its unique theme was revealed to the school in an assembly program. Lake Eola, one of Orlando's many beautiful lakes, was depicted by the staff members on an impressive backdrop, thus setting the theme. The journalists were commended for their contribution to Boone. Awards were given to those with 100 or more hours of after-school work.

To learn the methods of other successful staffs, the members attended various conferences. They also submitted the annual to the F.S.P.A., N.S.Y.A. and the N.S.P.A. critical services.

In an effort to record this year of work and play at Boone, the Editorial Staff worked harmoniously with the same thought in mind: to produce another quality yearbook. Striving to meet the final deadline of February 15 inspired the students; but most of all, they learned the values of accuracy, teamwork and organization. The Business Staff solicited ads, recorded subscriptions and distributed annuals in May. To lighten the load of the student project, the never-ending supply of cokes, crackers and ice cream helped to satisfy appetites. Both staffs realized the importance of having devoted advisers to guide and encourage them in this undertaking.

Pep Club Enthusiastically Forms Cheering Section At Games

A blazing bonfire preceding the clash between Edgewater and Boone helped to spark both the school and the team spirit.

Shouting seniors, Steve Malley and Chuck Colley, aid cheerleaders in directing pep section during Brahman Bowl Game.

Choosing the most fun-loving students at Boone, the Pep Club encouraged the Braves' fighting spirit.

Bus trips to "away" football games and planning the Homecoming Parade took the combined efforts of dedicated members. Decorated goal posts, exciting bonfires and colorful shakeroos were other projects that merited the compliments and pleased smiles of students and faculty alike. Impelled by this spark of energy, the club achieved its main objective—the promotion of school spirit.

"Real satisfied," thunders the crowd in answer to the chants of the vivacious cheerleaders. The Varsity squad, in addition to promoting school spirit, cheered at the games, held pre-game pep rallies and sold football tickets.

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders backed the "Baby Braves" by cheering at the J. V. games. They also substituted for Varsity cheerleaders if necessary. Both squads solicited ads for football programs.

Varsity Lettermen Work For Needed Athletic Equipment

"Get your fresh popcorn right here!" This exclamation was commonly heard at basketball games as the 40 Varsity Club members sold refreshments.

In addition to satisfying appetites, they helped supply the school with much needed athletic equipment utilizing the money from their sales. Several members also ushered at assemblies and rallies.

Membership in the club is open to those earning at least one letter in a varsity sport.

Whether Twirling or Baking, Majorettes Score Once Again

Preceding the band in a pirouette of performances, the high-stepping majorettes represented the spirit of the Boone Brave. These 20 girls twirled at football games and the Christmas Parade. They were also selected for a command performance at the Tangerine Bowl on New Year's Day.

Displaying their domestic talents, these members sponsored a cakewalk to defray expenses for their trip to the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington.

Thespians Find Acting Takes Interest, Work and Ability

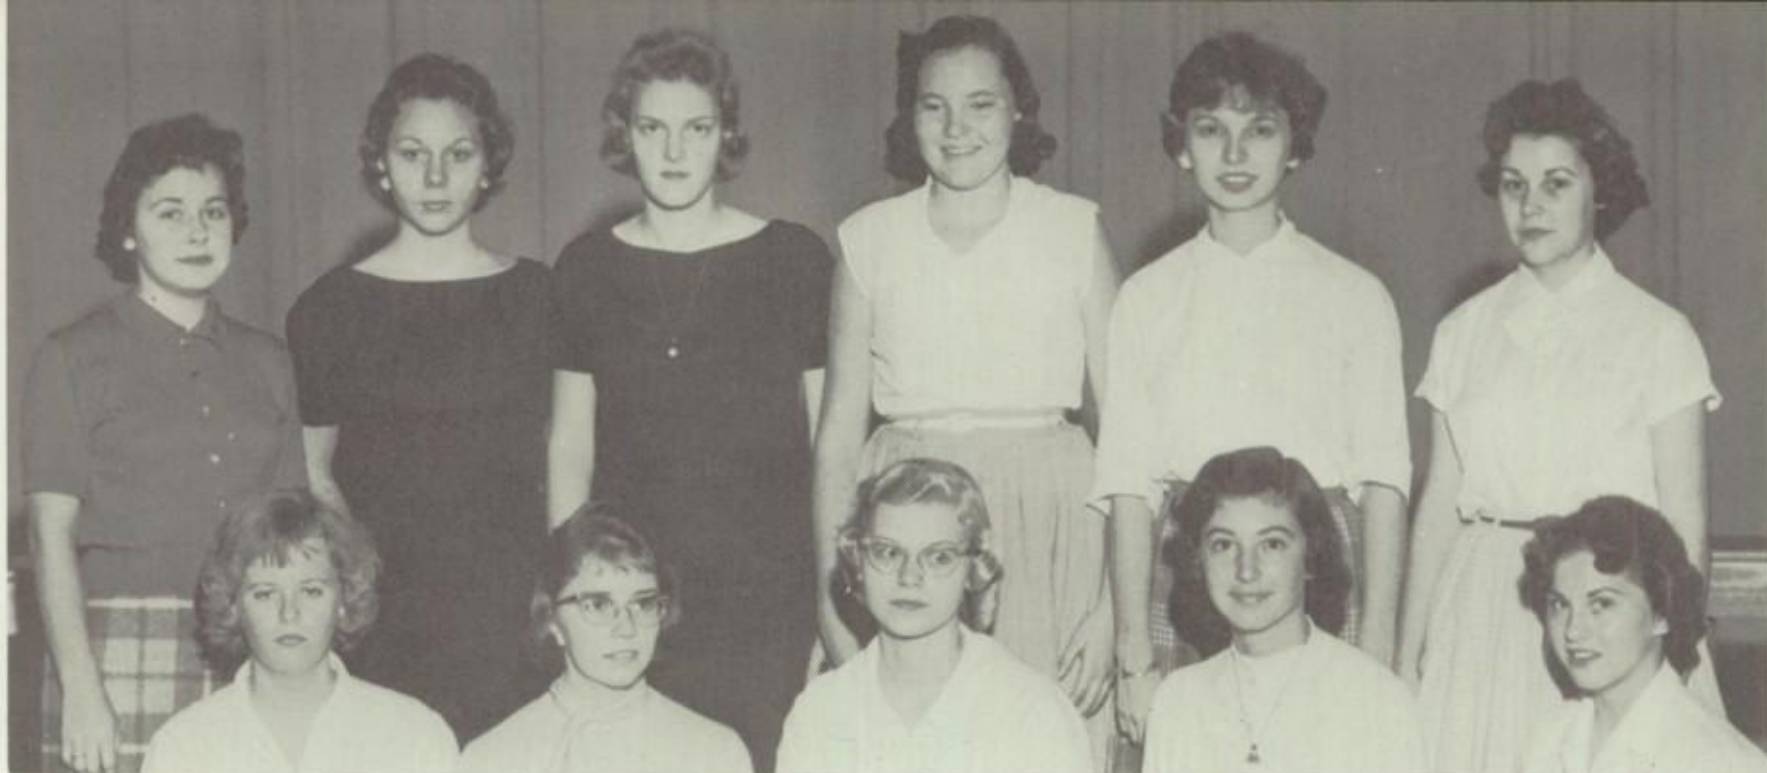

Lights, camera, action!! This phase describes the impression many people have of dramatics. Drama is glamorous; but even more so, it is artistic ability combined with hard work. The nine members composing the Thespians experienced this less glamorous side of drama as they earned the fifteen points required to gain membership. These points may be earned by working with any of the committees which serve the class plays. After displaying a genuine interest in drama, the members explored the enchanting world of make-believe by participating in a series of one-act plays during the Thespian meetings and by sponsoring plays at local civic clubs.

Campus Crusaders Endeavor To Uphold Christian Ideals

Crusaders in modern times do not fight for the recovery of the Holy Land but strive for Christian ideals. Sponsored by Youth for Christ, the Campus Crusaders endeavored to bring Christian standards to Boone students both at home and at school.

The Crusader meetings were not devoted entirely to business but were sparked by speakers, movies, debates and Bible studies. The club also had fun as was proved by the Sweethearts' Banquet in February.

Boone Knights Try to Master Challenging Game of Chess

"Silent as a tomb." With the exception of an occasional shuffle of feet and a few dull clicks, this phrase was an adequate description of Room 208 on Tuesday afternoons. These 24 members of the Boone Knights found many hours of enjoyment in this cultural and intriguing pastime.

Stimulating a greater interest in this challenge of wits, they donated books on chess to the library and challenged the Edgewater Club.

ATHLETICS...

Vault over the centuries to the Age of Roman Emperors. Hasten to Eternal Rome. Travel past the Circus Maximus, resounding to the clamor of chariot races, and enter the pillared Colosseum. There, in the vast arena, muscular athletes wait with javelin, discus and torch, ready to match their skill and strength with able opponents. To one side, a robed scribe records the entries on a parchment scroll. With great care he forms the letters of a new and different script—Roman capitals. Though the appearance of the writing differs from hieroglyphics, the aim remains the same—to communicate with others.

Remembered not only for originating a more useful alphabet, the Romans were also instrumental in stressing the importance of sports. They believed, as people believe today, that through sports, one becomes more fit physically and more alert mentally—that sports contribute to a more well-rounded person. Because of this belief, athletics play an important part in life at Boone. Athletics, their thrill and excitement, instill in both player and spectator a spirit of unity and teamwork.

Braves Snatch 7 Scalps, Leave

Hard work and outstanding school backing made the 1959 football season a record breaker. Successfully using the Slot-T formation, the Boone Braves outscored all other opponents by over 100 points.

Beginning the season with a loss temporarily discouraged the Braves, as the Lakeland Dreadnaughts proved too much for the inexperienced and unsteady defense. Encouraged by the experienced and expert coaching staff headed by Jack O'Brien, Boone overcame Gainesville's Purple Hurricanes in the second game. The talented toe of sophomore Bill Cody decided the victory with a 15-yard field goal. With their excellent passing attack, the Braves zoomed past the Melbourne Bulldogs for the second win of the season. The team traveled to Jacksonville for its next encounter. Alert Boone turned three Landon kicks into touchdowns and racked up another win on the victory list. Running 85 yards on the opening kickoff, halfback Bill Lane spurred the Braves on to victory over Winter Park. The Southsiders dominated the scoreboard most of the game.

With outstretched arms, Boone halfback Bill Andrus reaches for plummeting pigskin as Edison's Kenny Willits closes in.

Enemies Beaten and Bewildered

The triumphant Braves packed their suitcases for the next two contests. The varsity squad ruined the Ocala homecoming by breaking up their noted defense and eliminating their chances for a conference bid. Breaking a tie with a third-quarter march, led by Russell Ferguson, Boone defeated the forceful Dade City Pirates and gained its sixth straight victory.

Top-ranked Miami Edison was too much even for the powerful Braves. Boone scored more anti-Edison TD's than any other school in Florida, making this game the most exciting of the year. With spirits undampened, Boone toppled the Daytona Mainland Buccaneers and dominated the field with an overwhelming score of 46-0, a new high for the Braves.

Boone ended the regular football season with the annual cross-town rivalry of Edgewater High School. Neither team was able to score, and the intra-city battle ended in a deadlock. Being undefeated in the newly formed Sunshine Conference, the Braves earned the championship and ended the best season in their history with a memorable record of 7-2-1.

"Hold it, man, hold it!" exclaims Wildcat Steve King while Boone back Russell Ferguson obviously ignores this threat.

Braves Earn Coveted Request To Play in Brahman Bowl Game

Boone's mammoth defensive wall, averaging more than 200 pounds per man, permitted only Miami Edison to score more than one TD against their solid barrier. Because of their hard-hitting line, coupled with a capable offense, the Boone Braves were rated eighth in the State and earned the Brahman Bowl bid.

Annually two of the top-ranked high school football teams in Florida compete in a charity Brahman Bowl tilt. For 1959 Boone was chosen to tackle the Auburndale Hounds. Beginning with a first-quarter TD, the Braves dominated the field during the first part of the game. Bill Cody's attempted field goal ended the half with Boone's leading Auburndale 6-0.

Throttled Auburndale retaliated in the last half and held the Braves during the scoreless third period. In the last quarter the Hounds, profiting by a 15-yard penalty against Boone, took possession of the ball at the Braves' 35. They tallied in seven hurried plays to tie the game at 6-6. Thus ended a spectacular Boone gridiron season.

Plowing across for third Boone TD, J. Roberts discovers backing from Gregory Haney and Duke Hobbie, as Melbourne's Bill Hammond and Doug Mann assault Braves' deadly offense.

Superior maneuvering enables Boone Brave Bill Lane to avoid temporarily Edison Raiders, L. Beckman and C. Souder.

Bulldozing Braves bolted across the goal for three touchdowns to establish a record for 1959 against Miami Edison.

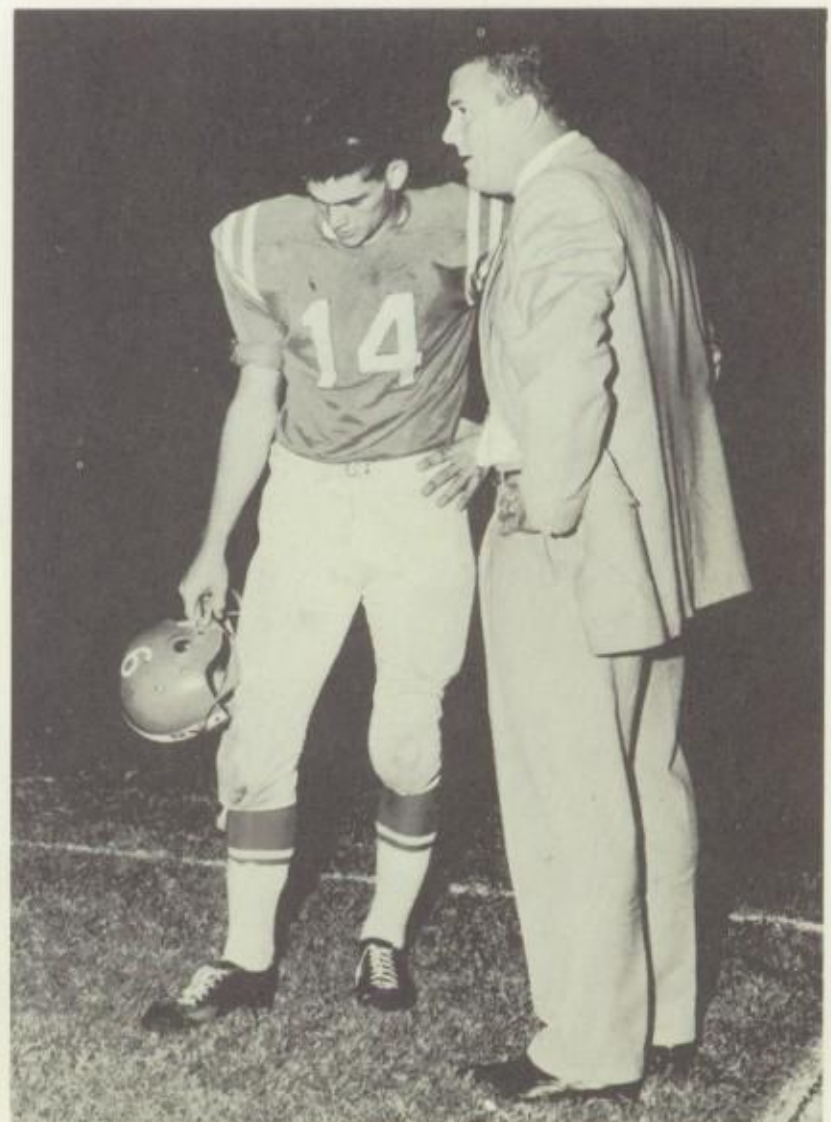

Boone linebacker, Jim Lucas, prepares to down Edgewater's Danny Rivenbark in the traditional Thanksgiving Eve game.

The annual Boone-Edgewater clash ended with the teams locking horns at 0-0. Boone made the only serious scoring bid.

Young Braves Trample 6 of 9 Opponents for Year of Victory

Spirited scrimmages, shrewd coaching, and co-operative players enabled the Baby Braves to complete a season record of 6-3, earning more victories than during any other season in Boone's history. Coaches McLin and Thompson urged the Braves to an opening victory of 28-0 over Maynard Evans.

In the second and third games, Boone yielded to Lakeland, 7-12, and to Cocoa, 6-12; but the following game with Colonial became a victory as the Baby Braves racked up 41-0, their highest score of the season. The winning streak continued as the Braves downed Mainland, 21-6 and Winter Park, 19-7.

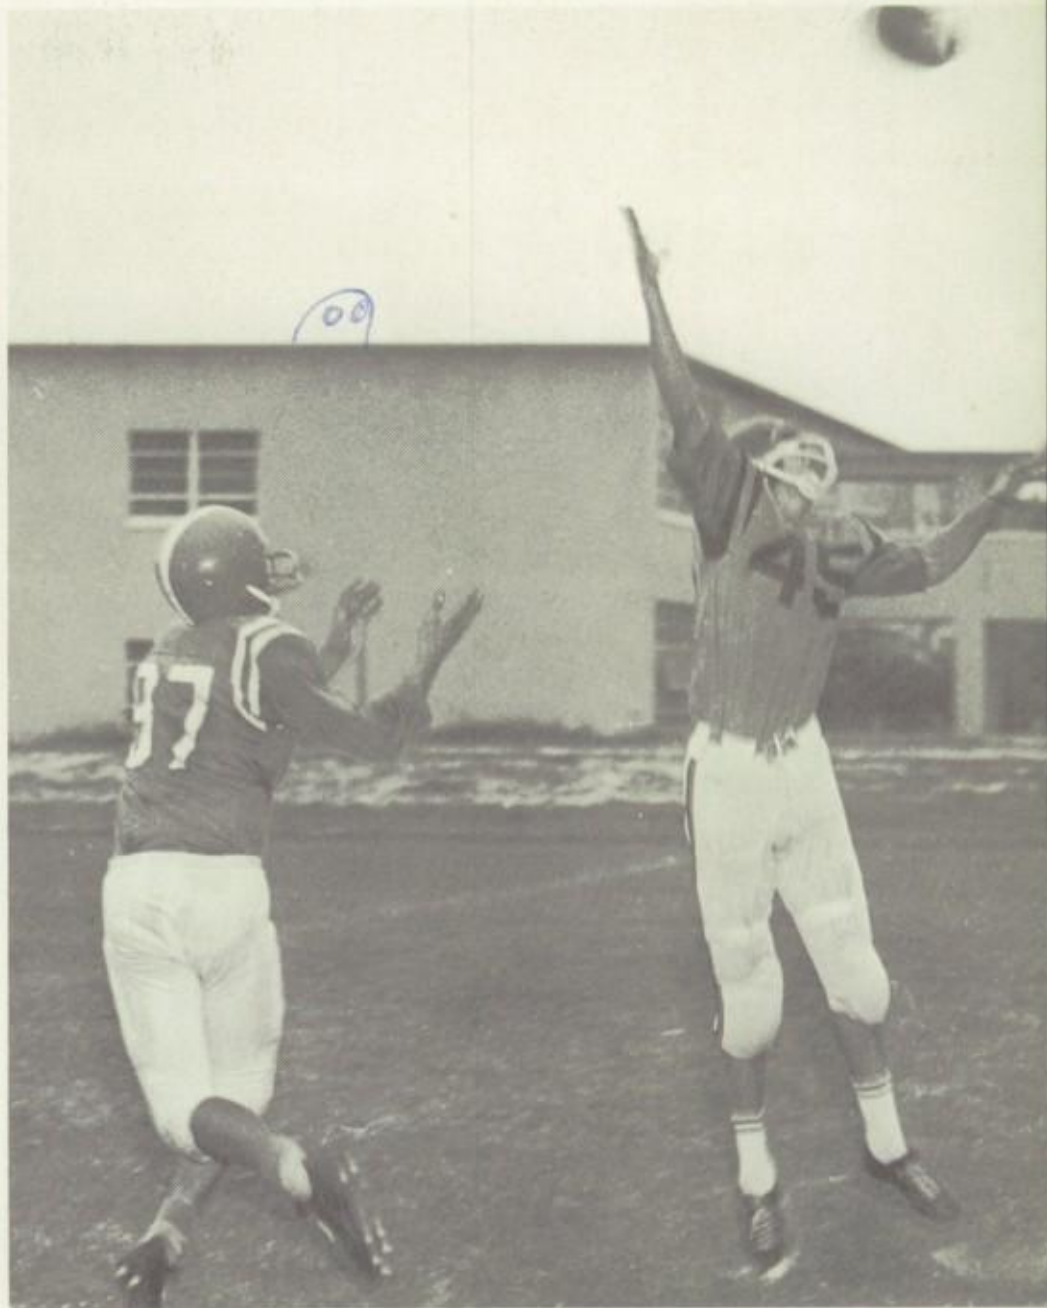

St. Cloud's varsity dealt a third and final loss to the Jayvees. Failing to gain the needed touchdown, the Braves lost the heartbreaker by a score of 25-26. Hopefully plunging ahead, they climaxed the season by defeating the Ocala Wildcats and the Edgewater Eagles. By combining aerial artistry with valuable ground gaining, the Jayvees overcame the strong Ocala defense with a winning score of 12-6. The Eagles fought bravely until the speedy feet of Boone's Jay Barfield ran the pigskin across for the only tally, just enough to squeeze by the powerful Eagles 7-0 and end the 1959 schedule victoriously.

Varsity Basketball Cagers

Plunging confidently into the first game with the Bulldogs, Boone fought hard and whipped Melbourne to begin the season triumphantly. Defeat smote the Braves for the next three encounters, however; and the team lost confidence after the first loss. The varsity cagers struggled fiercely, but succumbed to Edgewater, Lakeland and Daytona Mainland.

Determined for a victory, Boone charged into the next duel with high-ranked Winter Haven. Both teams played their best, especially in defense; but the Braves emerged on top with a score of 57-52. Ocala dealt defeat swiftly and surely in the first of the next three downfalls. Edgewater fought ferociously to gain a lead and hold it, and Gainesville had to put extra stress on its defense to gain victory.

Senior guard, Charles Johnson, led the Braves to victory in the next four matches. It was Boone all the way in the slaughter of the Colonial Grenadiers as the Braves piled up their highest score of the season—74-40. Surging into the next duel, the cagers crushed Maynard Evans with adroit ball handling and team co-operation. The Winter Park and Apopka matches proved to be the most exciting of the year. The Wildcats sported a 11-1 record before the game; and the Blue Darters, a 10-2 record. In both duels Boone clipped their claws by five points, but the leads were never certain and changed hands several times in each exciting match.

Defeat entered the picture again in a series in the last three games. Even though they fought with zeal, the Braves were whipped and avenged for their first encounter of victory with Melbourne. Daytona Mainland lashed out with might to plow Boone under by 26 points for the second of the three; and the Lakeland Dreadnaughts crushed Boone, 77-57. As of February 9, the Braves had accrued a record of 6-9.

globe to a teammate to start another drive for the basket. Boone fought hard but lost by the deciding score of 65-39.

"Grab that ball, Chuck!" yells Boone center, Vic Ratliff, as he wields a right hook eluding Lakeland's Bumpy Baldwin.

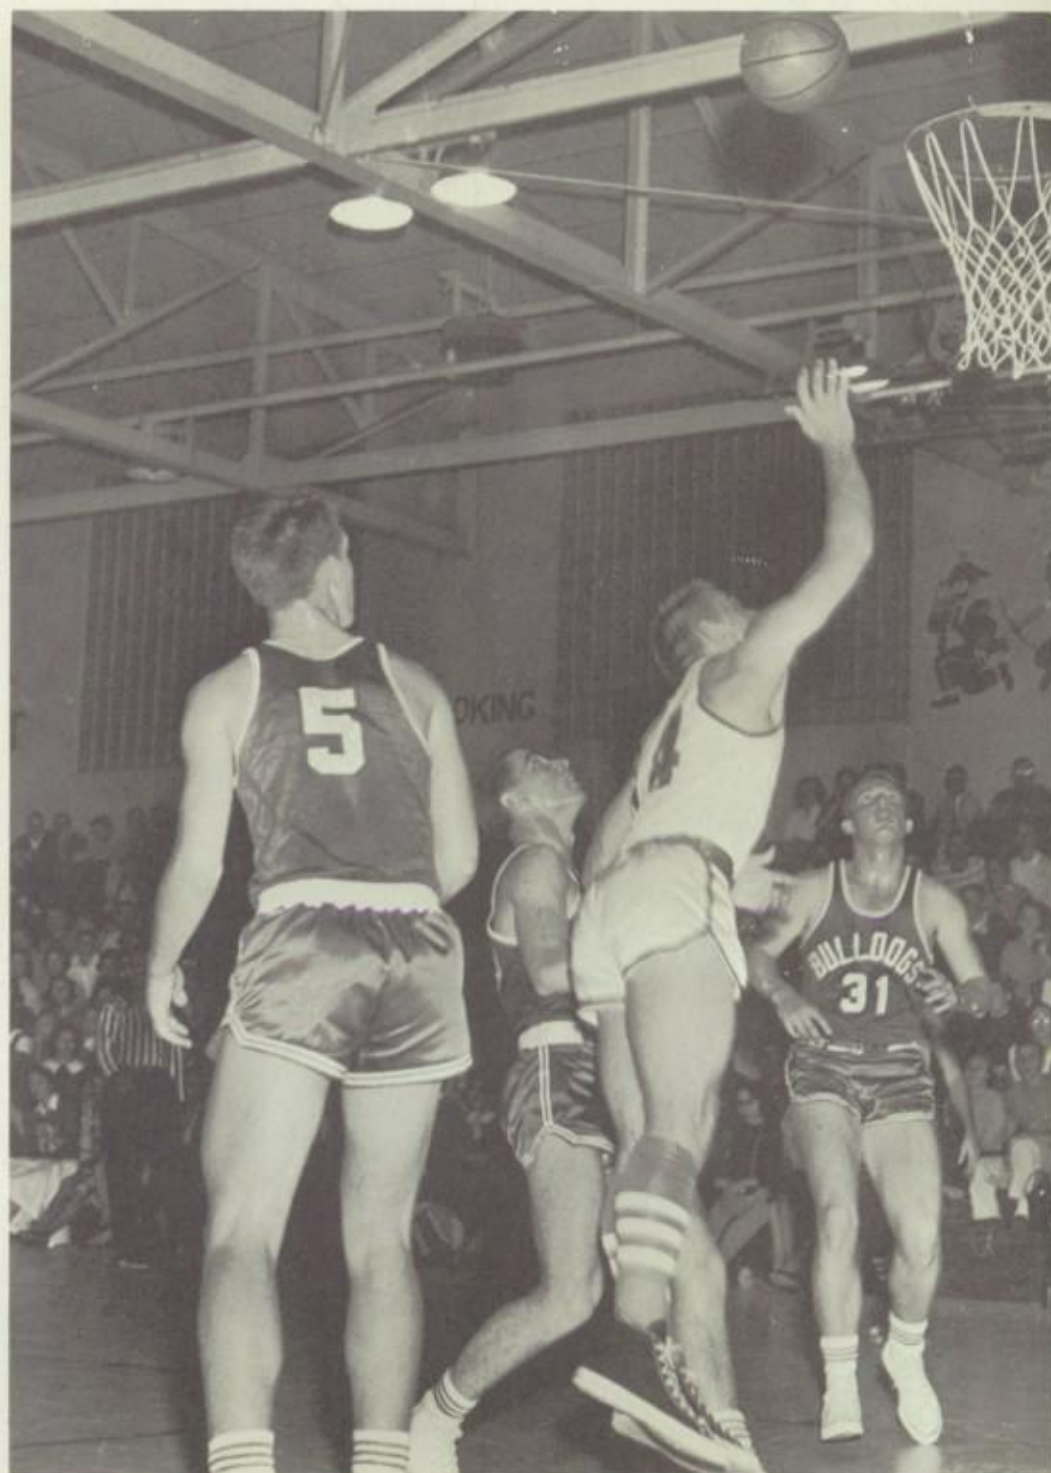

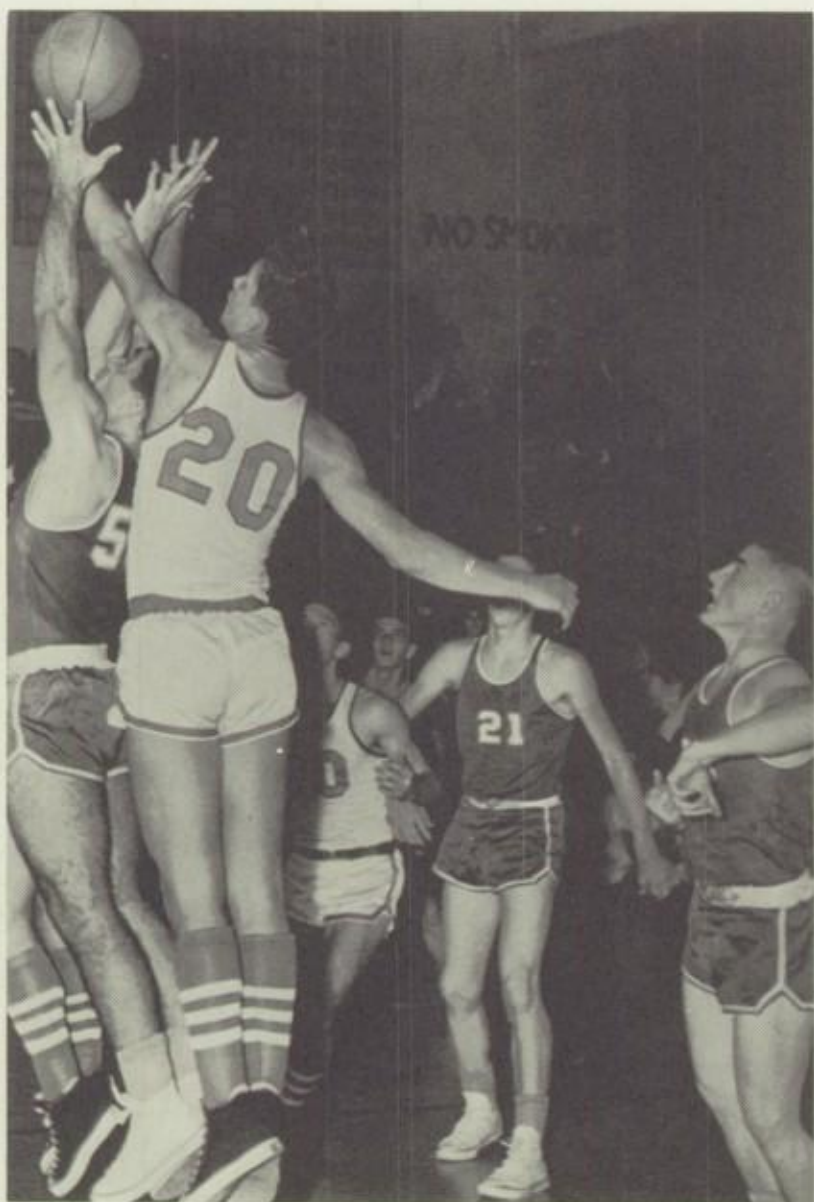

The basket looms large as Boone Brave, Bill Lane, drives in for a lay up despite threatening Winter Haven Blue Devils.

Boone J. V. Cagers Brand 10 Opponents; Leave 4 Unnerved

Hoping to fill the varsity squad's shoes in 1961, the Jayvees completed a 10-4 record as of February 9. Victorious in the first game with Melbourne, the Baby Braves surged into the next duel with Lakeland and lost a heartbreaker, 53-54. Boone came back to life for the next three tournaments and conquered Mainland, Winter Haven and Ocala.

Defeat slapped the team for the second and third times in the games with Edgewater and Gainesville. Because of expert ball handling, the Braves retaliated in the next three matches with wins. Colonial and Evans easily fell to the increased prowess of the Jayvees, but the duel with Winter Park was the most exciting of the year. The Braves and Wildcats juggled the lead back and forth. With a tie score at the end, the game required a three-minute overtime. Boone's Jayvees, rallying to the emergency, defeated the Wildcats with one winning toss.

Apopka's Blue Darters inflicted the fourth loss on Boone's cagers in a close duel. Spirits rose in the last three encounters as the Braves downed the Bulldogs in the first, racked up the highest season score (75 points) in the second against Mainland, and felled the Lakeland Dreadnaughts in the third.

Bill Connell's fast break up the middle temporarily baffles the Evans cagers as he surges toward the unguarded basket.

Southside Cindermen Shatter Five Records of Past Braves

Participating in regular duel meets with Edgewater, Winter Park and Cocoa proved to be only one of the highlights of Boone's 1959 track season. The Braves also gained recognition in the Boone Invitational, the University City Relays, the Hillsborough Relays and the district and state meets. Seven sprinting Braves, trained by Coaches O'Brien and Thomas, came in fifth in the state meet.

Bill Lane, Thomas Hamilton, Tom Houston and John Roberts ran the sprint medley in 2:01.2, and Larry Evans pole-vaulted 13'2" to set two new state and school records. Three other Boone records were broken. Arthur Johnson scooted the 220-yard dash in 22 seconds; Jack Carter hurled the shotput 48'6"; and Larry Evans ran the high hurdles in 15.4 seconds.

With the 1960 season bringing ten returning lettermen and other promising cindermen, Boone expects several first places in field and track events.

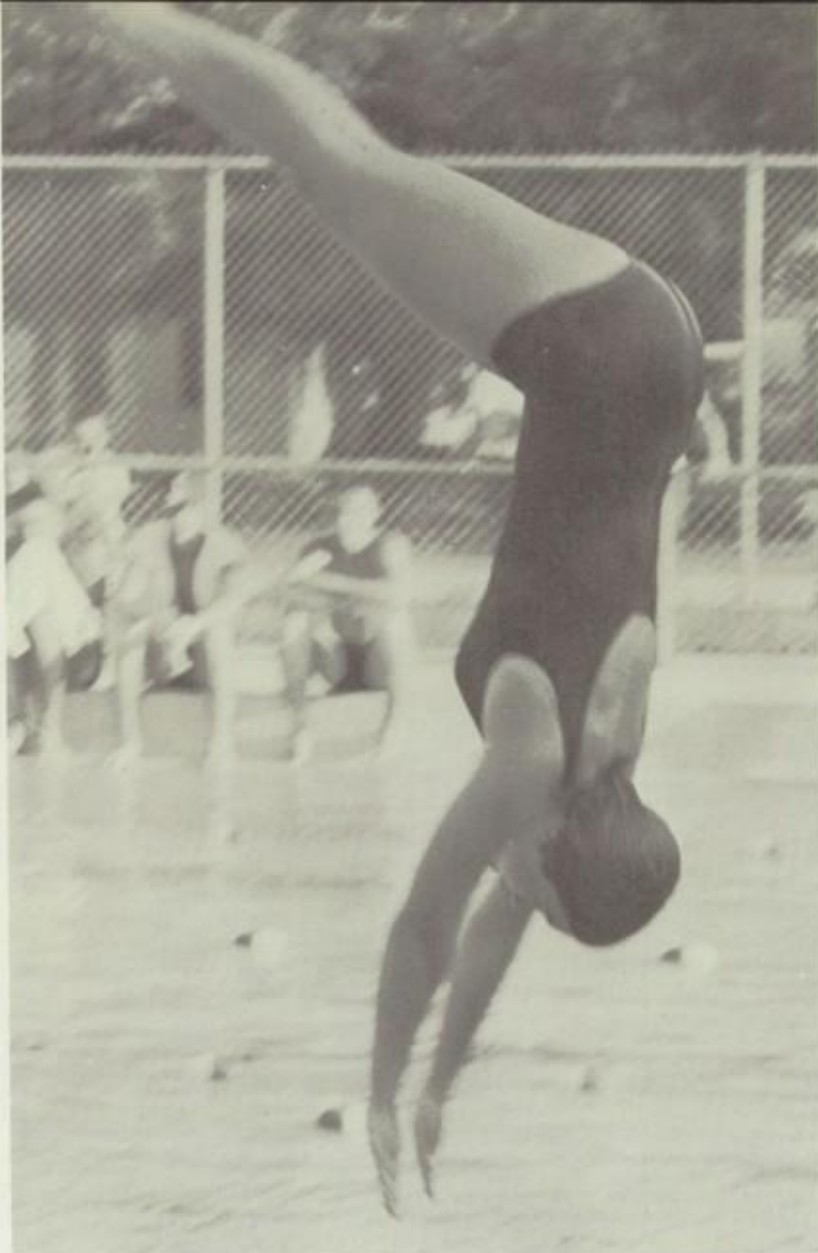

Racing over for first place in the 440-yard dash, Boone's Johnny Roberts easily outsprints Winter Park's Mike Mosher.

Rolling over at five feet, Don Patton continues to improve his style in an effort to equal Boone's record of six feet.

State pole-vault champ, Larry Evans, freely clears the bar in good form while practicing for another record breaker.

Minor Sports Lose in 1959; Expect Victories for 1960

Minor sports still lack importance in the lives of the Braves. The 1959 swimming team had a successful turnout, but their swimming record was not comparable to that of the previous year. Failing to place first in any meet of the season, the Boone tankmen proved themselves by showing excellent sportsmanship and displaying good style in every encounter.

For the 1960 spring season, minor sports will include golf and tennis rather than swimming. Because of their inactivity in 1959, Boone's golf and tennis teams were planned far in advance of the tournaments. Both look forward to a season of victory with Coach Zeke Shumaker at the helm.

Anxious and expectant Boone Brave, Boogie Michaels, awaits his time after swishing through the 100-yard breaststroke.

Second baseman, Ray West, executes a flying line-drive snag during afternoon practice for the spring baseball season.

With a final lunge, Boone's Leroy Luke gains first base far ahead of the speeding ball thrown to Eagle, Butch Smelley.

Boone's Nine Launch Season With Opening Grand Slam Win

Leveling their swings, perfecting their slides, and otherwise loosening their muscles were the goals of the Braves, as the ten lettermen returned to practice for the favorite American pastime, baseball.

Led by the capable arm of Boone's pitching sensation, Johnny Jones, the Braves began the 1959 season by overwhelming Lakeview with a score of 18-2. This was the highest score of the year and credited to outstanding playing by the infield. The Braves won eight more of 15 encounters to establish a season record of 9-6.

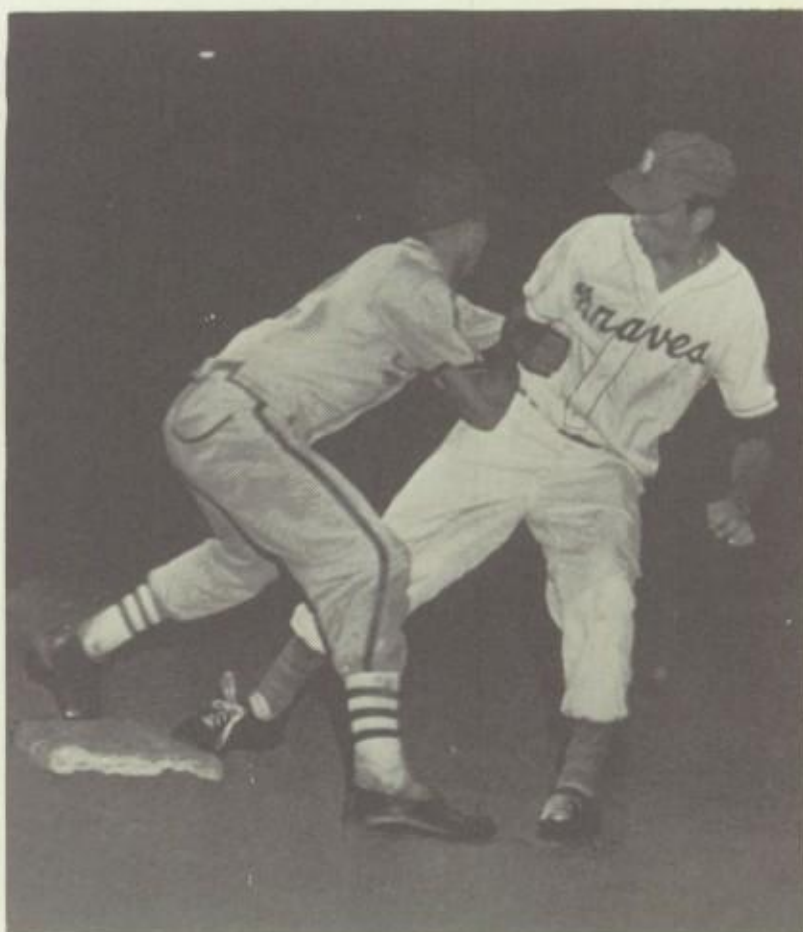

Coach Bruce McLin hopes, with the able backing of the experienced sluggers and the promising rookies, to climax the 1960 season with a schedule of wins, and possibly to better the 1957 win record of 19-4.

Stride over the next 1400 years to the Renaissance. Visit Mantua, Italy, the home of a celebrated humanist school. At that university, near the green meadow which acts as an athletic field, a young student walks slowly across the campus. With intense interest he studies a strange book—strange, for it was not written with quill and ink as were earlier manuscripts, but was produced by a new method called "printing." This new process, developed by Gutenberg, is an important step in the history of written communication.

Students today do not look with such amazement on the printed word. Text books and dance programs, reference volumes and formal invitations are all common to the Twentieth Century teen-ager. The quiet of the schoolroom during classtime, the chatter of friends at lunch, the excitement of a pep rally, the tension of a close game—all these combine to fill a school day. Whether in the classroom or at a social gathering, students and teachers together plunge into the stream of activity which is William R. Boone's Campus Life.

Boone Is People

Boone is many things. It is numerous books, desk-filled classrooms, a sunny campus. But above all it is students, faculty and administration and their many moods. It is faces—meditative, cheerful, serious, glowing, doleful, scornful, smiling, contemplative, determined, tender. It is people working and playing together who compose the living, throbbing heart of Boone that IS Boone.

Administration Guides Young Minds to Challenging Future

Various talents of many individuals combine to form Boone's administrative department. Handling mail, records, registration, schedules and all the other facets which integrate to comprise a large school, these people strive to make Boone an industrious, well-run and efficient organization.

Meeting together monthly, members of the various departments join forces in discussing their mutual problems. By talking over these problems and offering suggestions for their solutions, they acquire a more thorough understanding of their school as a whole. Thus, in attempting to serve the school and the students better, Boone's teachers and administrators endeavor through guidance and instruction to prepare the young minds of today for the challenges which they must face in the future.

Foreign Language Department Offers Enriching Curriculum

One of the world's most important bridges is supported by the knowledge of such foreign languages as Latin, Spanish, French and German.

The Latin Department, furnishing the background from which the Romance Languages have stemmed, is spiced by the requirement of maps tracing Caesar's campaigns. These students also have an opportunity to teach their classmates a phase of Roman culture on which they have done extensive research.

Spanish-learning classes are taught the language orally, though a sound grammatical base is equally important. Among other real-life situations interpretation of Spanish newspapers is a valuable aid.

In the French language great emphasis is placed on enunciation. Beginning French students progress from simple conversation and elementary grammar to intermediate speech and composition.

Varied Mathematics Courses Encourage Logical Thinking

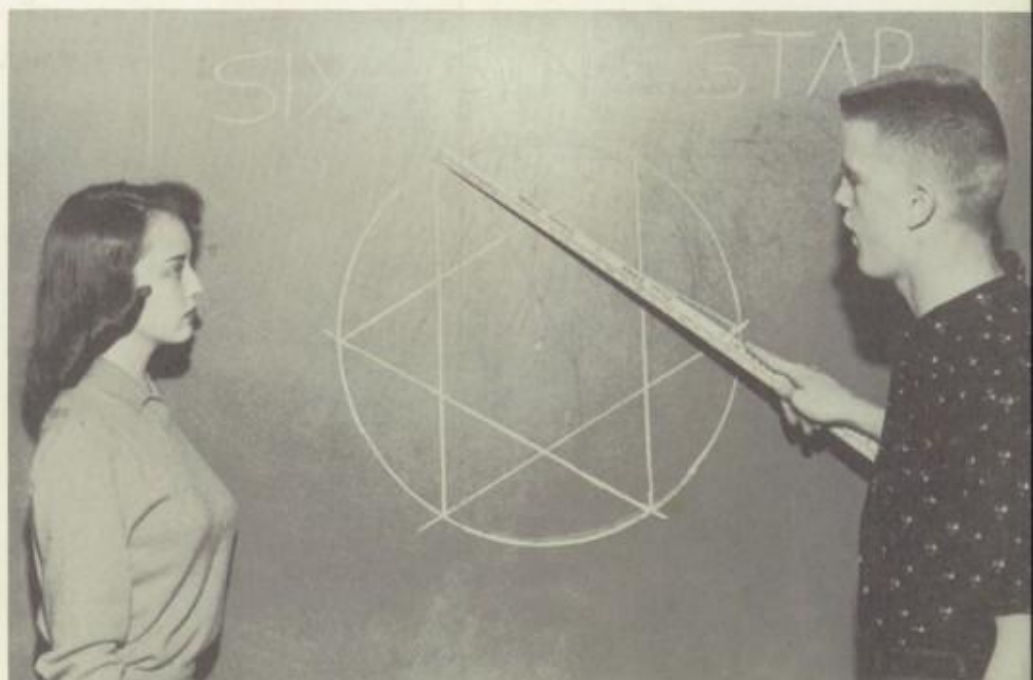

From Business Arithmetic to Special Math, Boone offers eight mathematics courses for its students.

Business Arithmetic, a commercial course, covers basic and business mathematics, whereas Algebra I develops abstract thinking through the use of symbols. Algebra II advances to working with quadratics, imaginary numbers and progressions.

In the eleventh grade most students elect Plane Geometry, which is required for academic diplomas. The Special Geometry class covers a Plane Geometry text and, in addition, work in advanced Algebra.

Students, as seniors, may take Solid Geometry for a semester. This course involves solid figures and develops the ability for logical reasoning. In the second semester these seniors choose Trigonometry, including the functions of angles.

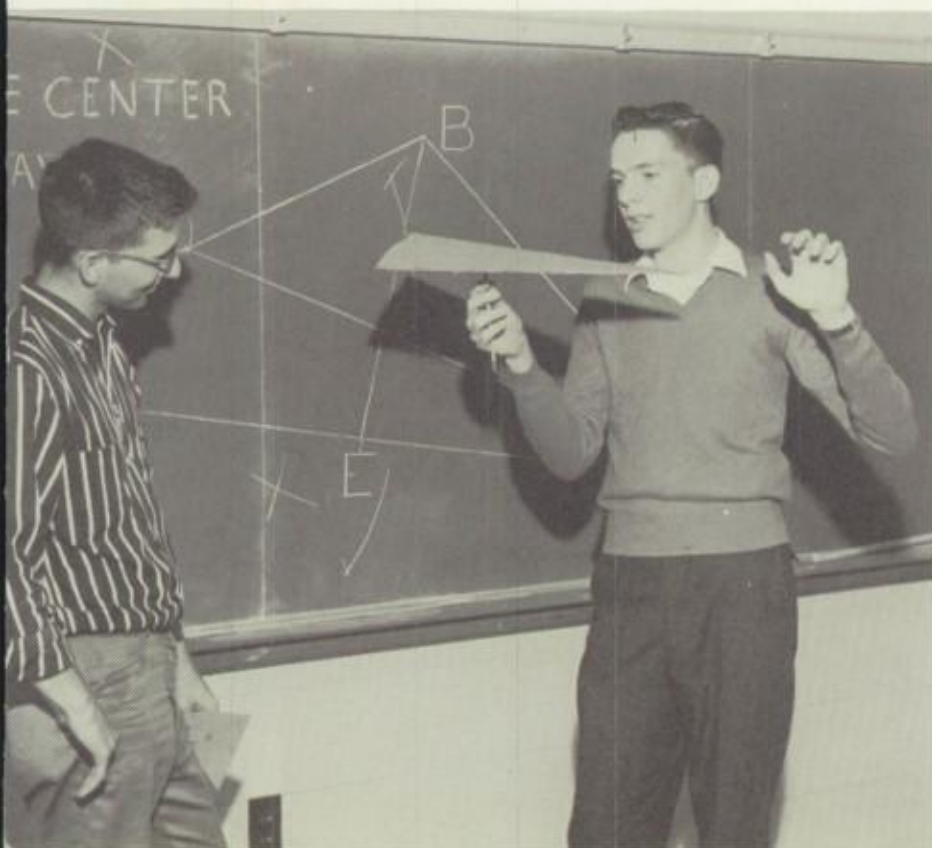

In Special Mathematics, Boone's final mathematics course, students study solid geometry and advance into a college text which deals with functions.

Jim Qualls shows Lynda Counts in Plane Geometry class that the vertices of the triangle form the points of the star.

Daily math lessons keep students in Mrs. Meredith Weeden's Business Arithmetic class familiar with basic operations.

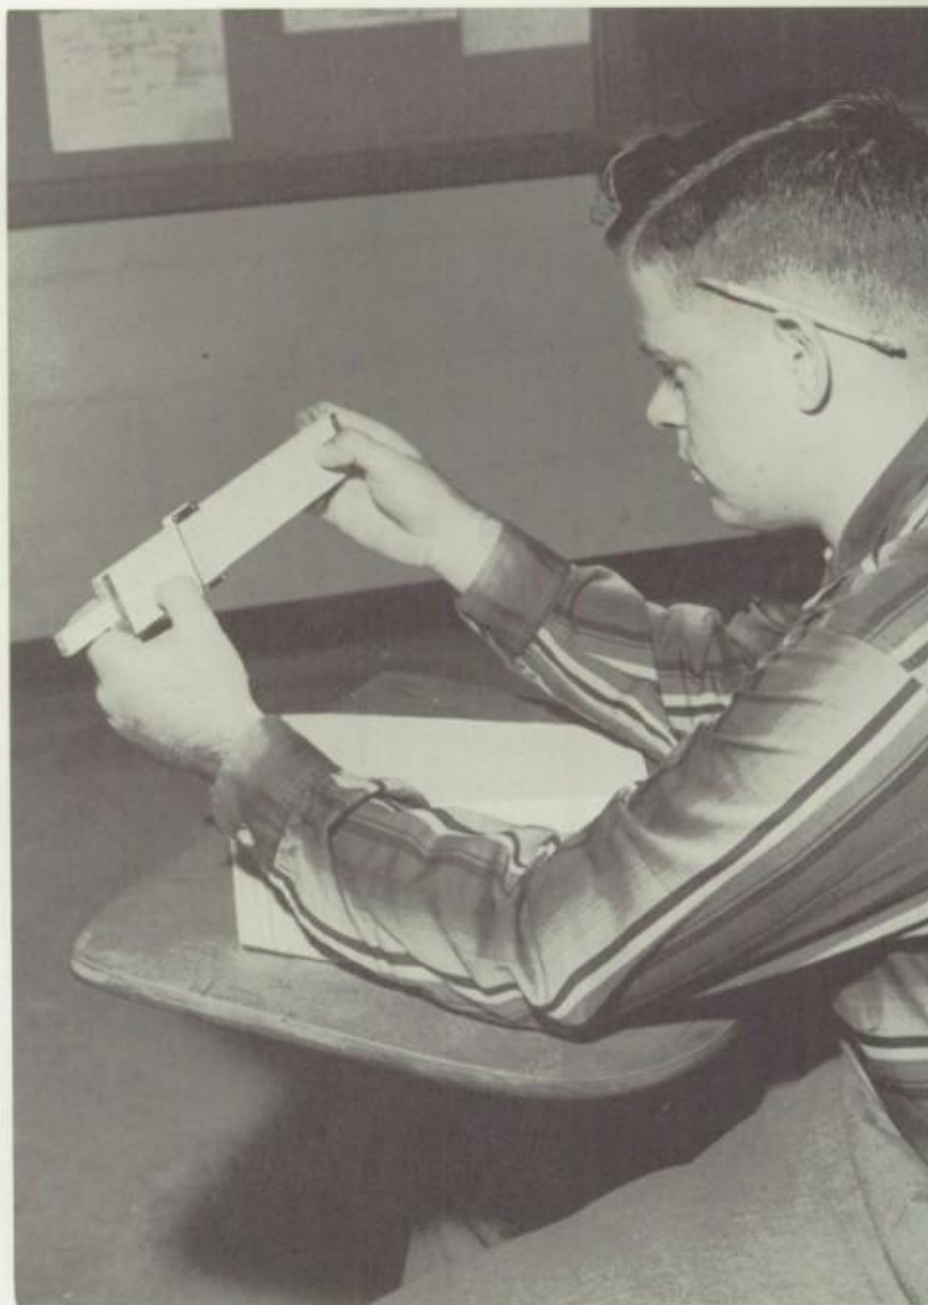

"It balances," exclaims Stuart VanTine in demonstrating the center of gravity of a triangle to fascinated Jack Durbin.

Offering helpful hints on an Algebra I problem, Mr. Cramp assists Judy Magamoll as William Guthrie listens intently.

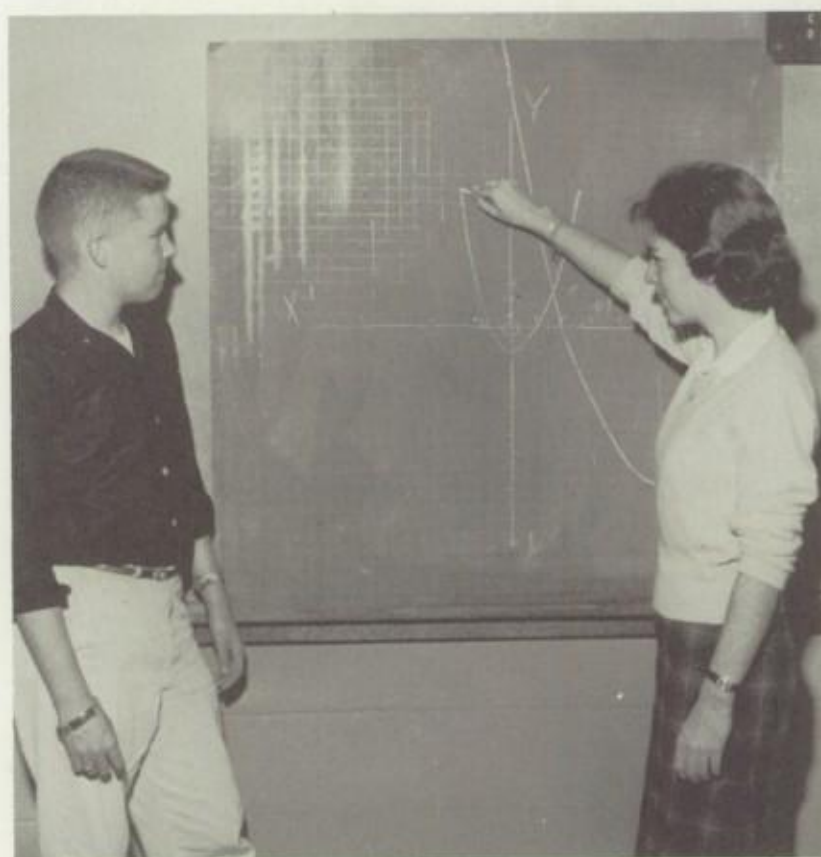

"What a headache!" moans Pat Hornsbeek as she ponders over an income tax form in Mrs. Yocum's first period B.A. class.

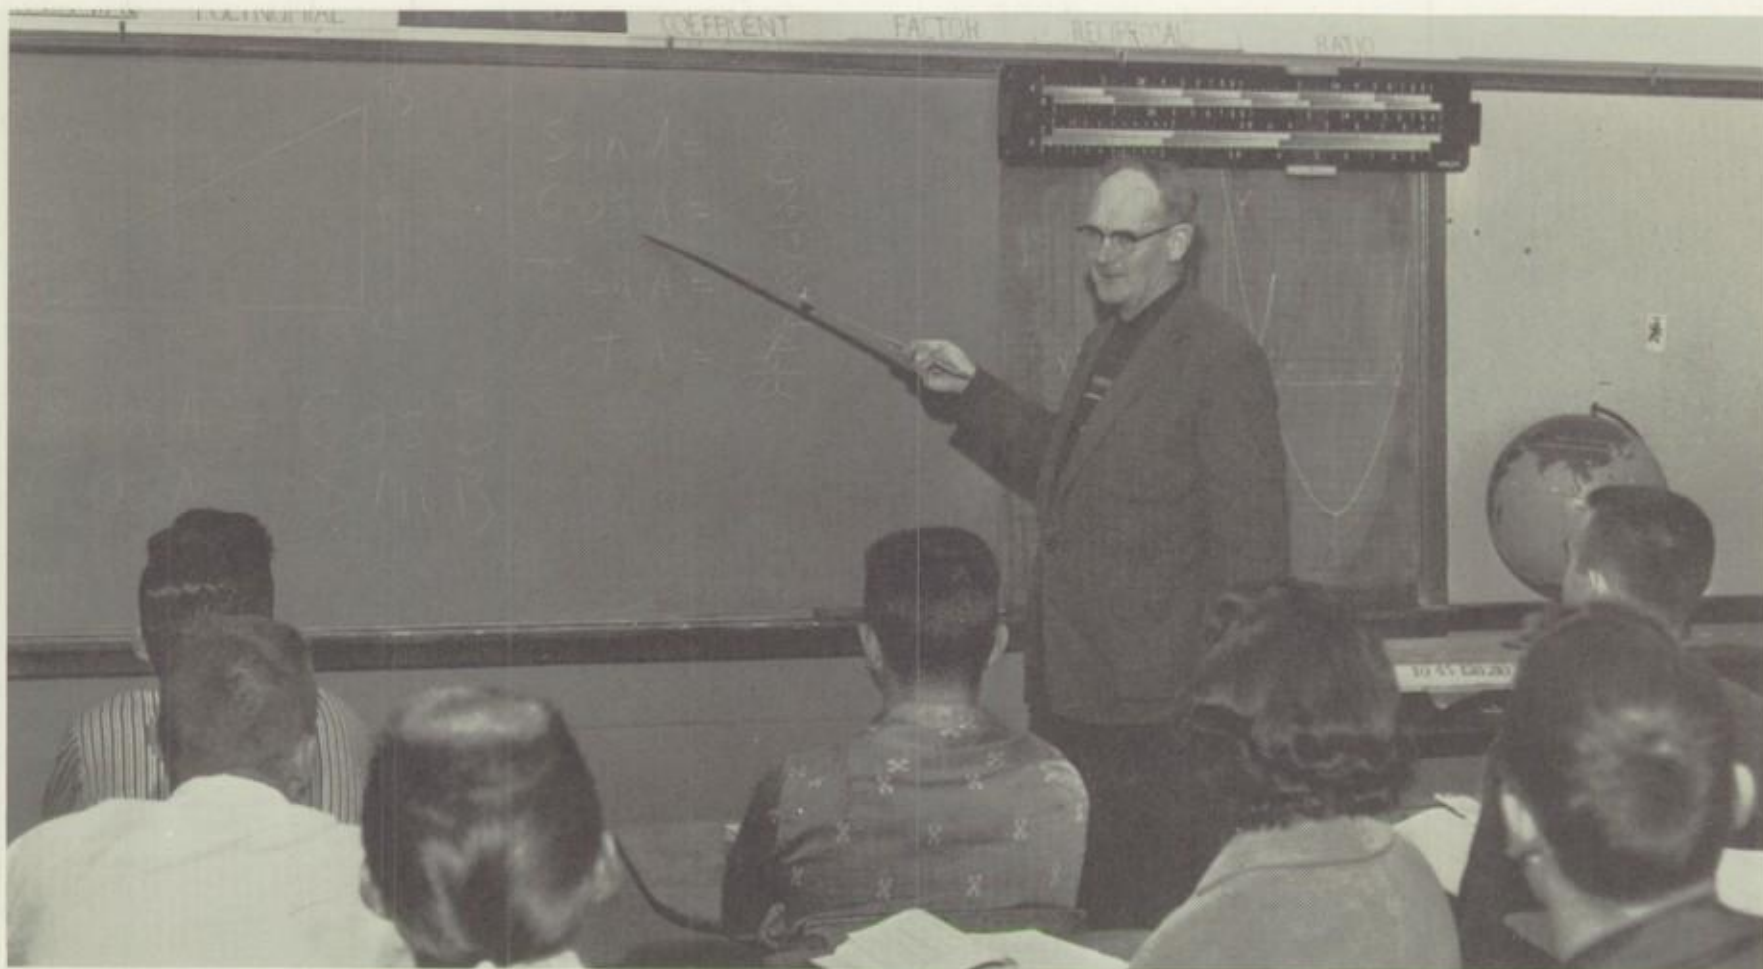

Special Mathematics student, Neal Harvey, employs his knowledge of the complex slide rule to solve a tough problem.

Skeptical Solid Geometry students, Jim Dulany and Kenneth Wilson, marvel at the sustaining ability of small sticks.

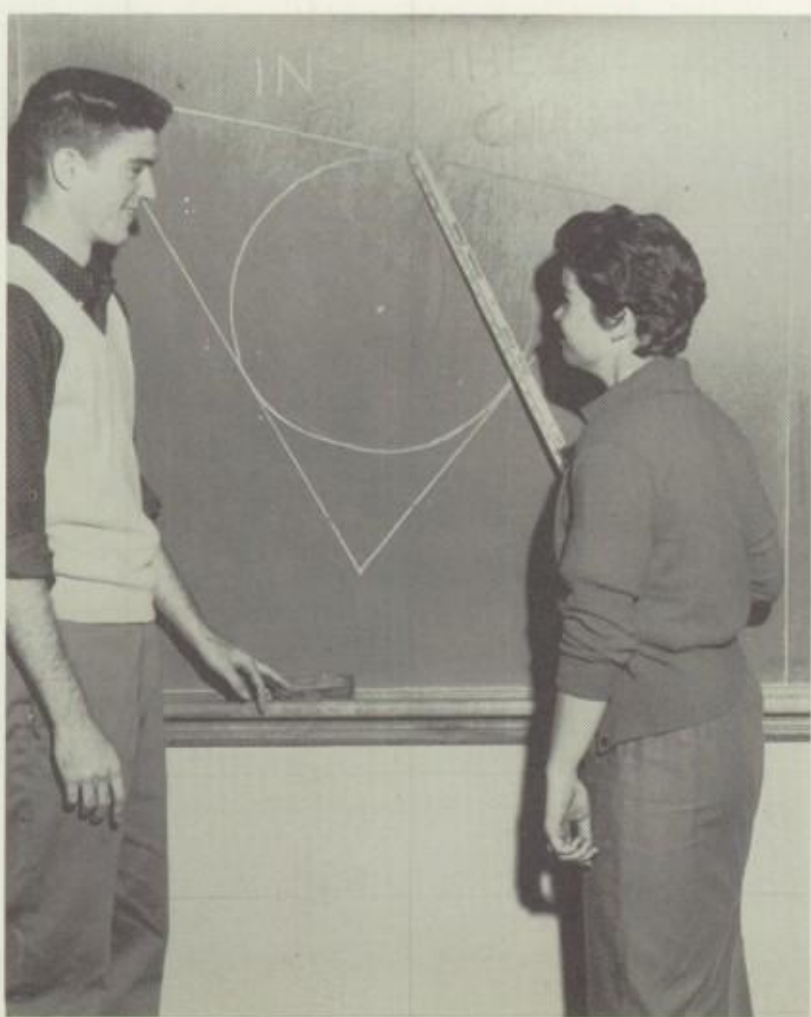

Blackboard and chalk are put to use by Bud Locke and Martha Lenzini to graph a quadratic equation in Algebra II class.

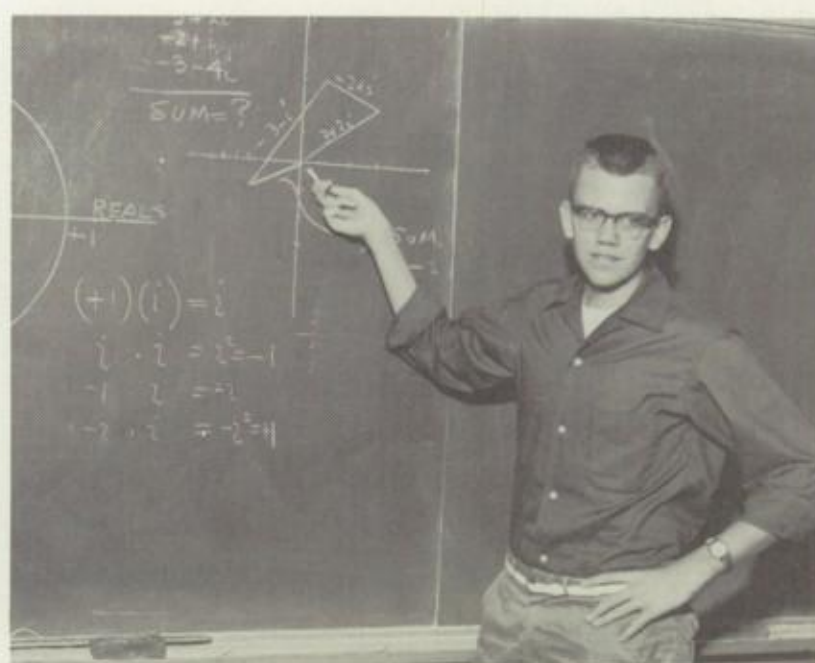

Functions of angles, the basis for a study of High School Trigonometry, interest seniors preparing for higher math-

New medium of learning—television is made available to Sociology students in an effort to increase their awareness.

Social Studies Involves the Study of Man, His Environment

Work in the Social Studies Department enables students to understand themselves and the world better. Battles, daring feats and famous people come alive in History and Geography; and in Psychology and Sociology man's everyday problems are studied.

Huge oceans, mighty rivers and majestic mountains have played an important part in world development. World Geography students learn of the physical composition of the world and of man's effort to adapt the elements of nature to his own needs.

Past events are realistically recalled in World History classes. Maps, charts, reports and current events' discussions supplement the textbook material and add interest for the students. The growth of a struggling nation is revealed in United States History. Research papers and committee projects enrich this course. Students also study in detail the Constitution of the United States. In Special History selected students study American government, advanced American history and economics.

Students combine Psychology and Sociology into a year's work. In Psychology complexities of the human mind and man's behavior are disclosed to them, and how people react to propaganda is a main topic for classroom discussion. Sociology students try to prepare for their future lives by studying and analyzing the economic, social and political problems which they will someday encounter.

Students Prepare for Future Vocations in Business World

Tomorrow's business leaders must be trained today. This thought is closely related to Boone's commercial courses which include a variety of offerings. Among these are Consumer Education, which teaches selling and buying techniques; and General Business Training, which covers all phases of commerce.

In the more specialized areas Boone offers Typing I and II, which give students knowledge of typing methods, letter forms and secretarial work; Shorthand I and II, which teach abbreviated methods for taking dictation; and Bookkeeping I and II, which instruct students in the techniques of keeping office files and ledgers. Students who best utilize the variety of commercial courses offered at Boone are able to prepare adequately for their vocations.

Practical Arts Department Stresses Useful Subjects

Among the many departments at Boone, Practical Arts teaches, as the name implies, useful courses.

Learning how to keep the Nation's primary means of transportation in good condition, boys in Auto Mechanics study basic theory of automobiles and the components of various types of engines. While this knowledge is significant, proper shop practices and safety are also stressed.

Public speaking and parliamentary procedure are subjects reserved not only for speech classes but also for students in Agriculture. The first year of this course is concerned primarily with the growing methods of vegetable crops. Livestock and poultry become objects of study for second-year students, while those in third-year care for Boone's citrus grove and study ornamental horticulture.

Clean white aprons are donned in Home Economics classes as the girls begin to cook. While studying the foods in the "basic seven," they also have an opportunity to gain needed experience by preparing the meals themselves. Three pieces of clothing must be completed in the sewing part of the course for the misses to gain full credit.

Though the course is available to boys as well as girls, Home Life and Family Living constitutes the final phase of Home Economics. There, students study such topics as maturity, dating and balanced diets. Assembling into individual groups, each class must plan, prepare and serve an entire meal.

By taking advantage of such courses as D.C.T. and D.E. in which they learn by working, students may be better prepared to enter adult society.

Fine Arts Students Further Their Aesthetic Enrichment

Whether singing, drawing or acting, students in the Fine Arts classes strive toward perfection.

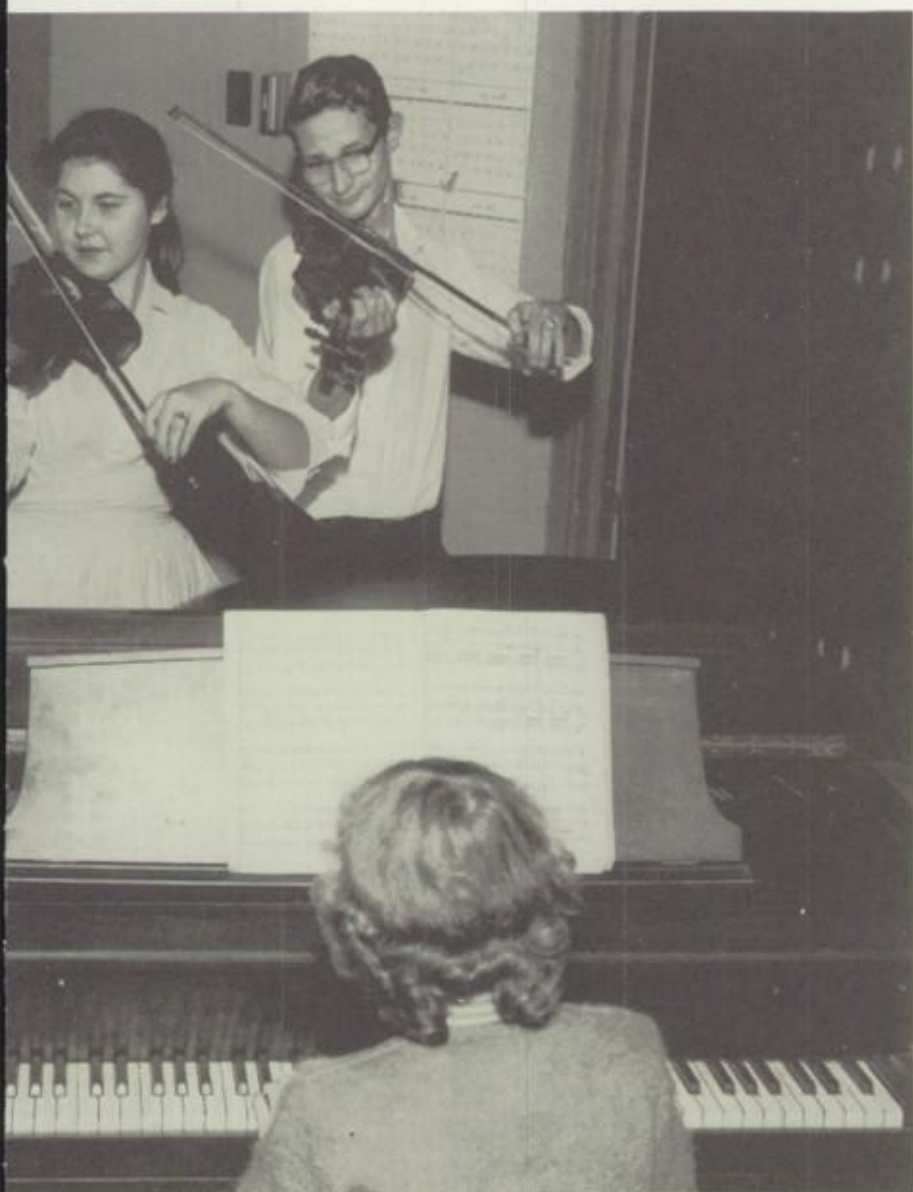

Aesthetic enrichment, betterment of the community and the individual's own interests—all are encouraging factors for the amateur artists. With talent supplemented with accuracy, students in Mechanical Drawing classes learn the various functions of precision instruments. Advancing with this knowledge, they then may design and draw house plans.

Talent and hours of practice are basic requirements for the students in the Chorus, Orchestra and Band. Members of the Chorus study theory and sight reading, while those in Band and Orchestra practice a variety of drills and arrangements.

Those enrolled in Drama and Speech classes must learn proper enunciation early in the course. Working mainly to develop their talent, these students also have an outlet for self-expression.

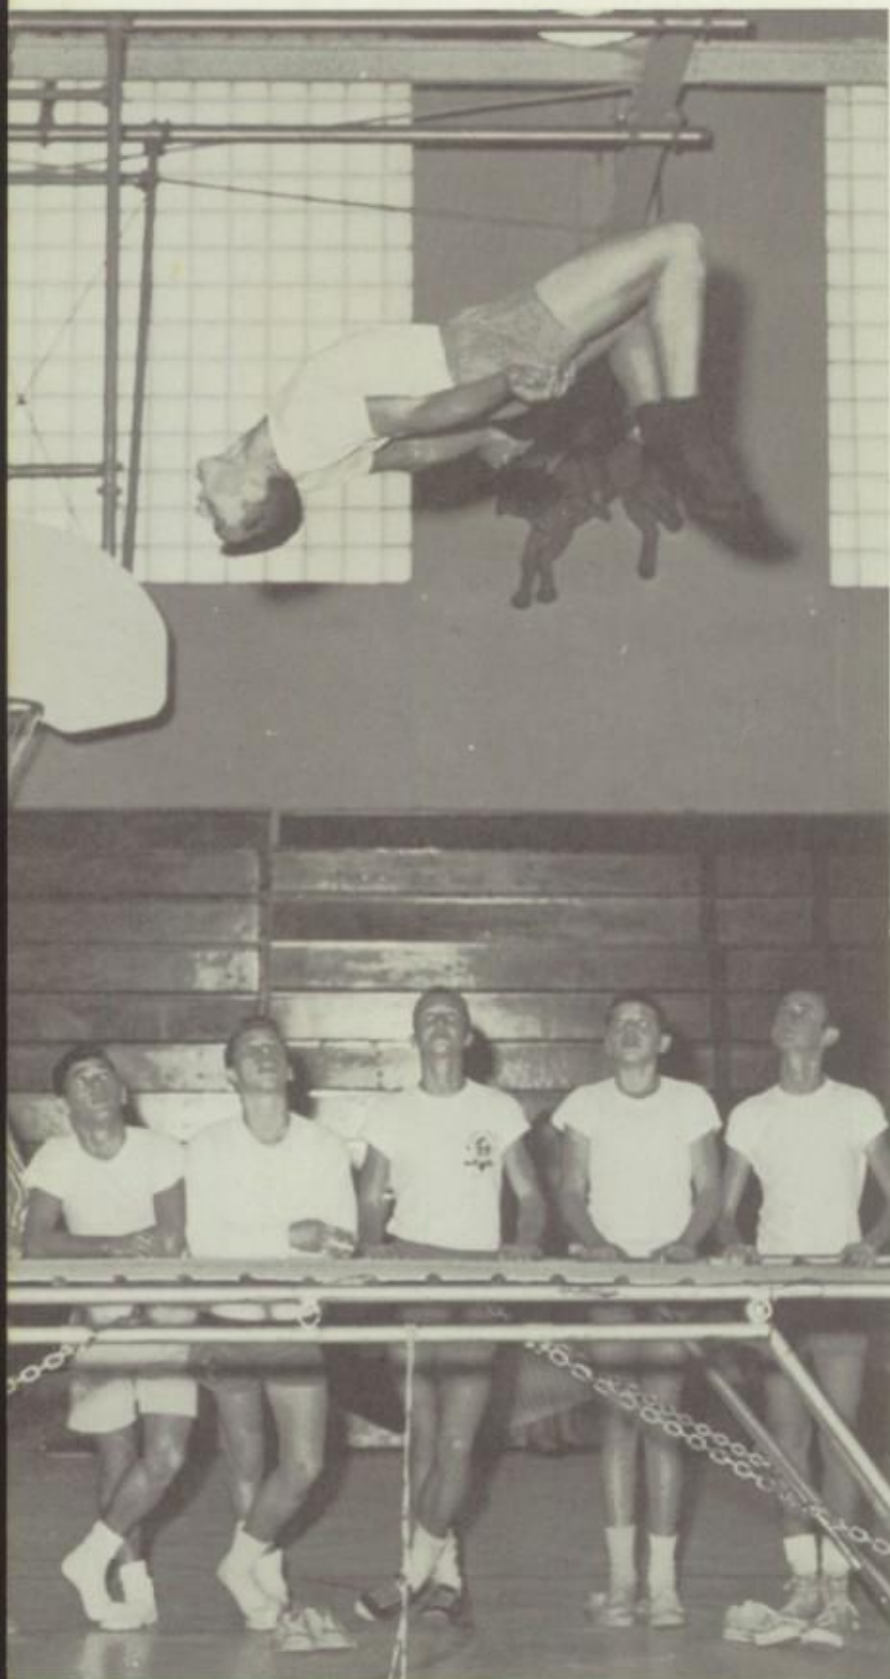

Geometric figures seem to attract class interest during Mr. Martin's explanation of the use of the 30-60-90 triangle.

Physical Education Students Enjoy Sports and Square Dancing

1-2-3-stretch! Before a student begins actual participation in any sport, he takes preliminary exercises designed to limber the muscles. After these exercises the Physical Education classes begin to play the sports which are in season.

In the fall masculine Braves play football while feminine Braves enjoy soccer and volleyball. Both football and volleyball are climaxed by intramural championships at the close of the season. Following the fall activities, boys and girls join together for the annual week of square dancing.

During the winter boys take part in basketball, weightlifting and rope climbing, while girls work out on the trampoline and perform the varied gymnastics required in tumbling. Then as spring days arrive, hours are spent on the baseball and softball diamonds, the badminton courts and the track. Throughout the year Boone's many and varied sports provide fun and healthful exercise for students in all the Physical Education classes.

Drivers' Education Students Learn Courtesy on the Road

Helping to make students more aware of the need for cautious driving on today's busy highways, Boone's Drivers' Education class stresses auto safety.

In the thirty hours of classroom study students utilize movies on safety, reaction time tests and text-books. To add to the efficiency of the class, Hollar Motors donated a dual-control 1960 Chevrolet. Those students who have a restricted license may take part in six hours of actual driving. This on-the-spot training acquaints them with the habits of other drivers.

Through this class study and behind-the-wheel training, these teen-age drivers are taught safe driving methods and courtesy to other motorists.

For six periods a day it is filled with students seeking a place in which work may be done on assignments. To make room for another study hall, the Auditorium is available for part-time usage.

Besides this supervised study, students are also allowed to make use of the library, where they may do research work and check out books.

Adult Groups Perform Vital Services in Many Capacities

Among the many activities at Boone are those of adult groups in which civic-minded individuals sponsor various projects for the benefit of the school, as well as for a feeling of personal satisfaction. One of these, the P.T.A., endeavors to promote better welfare of children and youths in home, school, church and community. By attempting to further cooperation among parents and faculty, P.T.A. members strive to bring into closer relation the home and school. That fathers are playing an ever-increasing role in life at Boone is shown by the growth of the Dad's Club. More and more, the fathers of students are uniting in the common cause of improving athletic and academic facilities.

Boone's housekeepers are the janitors, maids and lunchroom workers. These people daily provide the meals needed to feed the students and instructors, as well as clean the many halls and classrooms. Student Groups Ably Assist In the Functioning of Boone

As a student scurries through the hall toward the office, one idea rushes through his mind. "Why does the office want me?" This thought is soon stilled when an assistant kindly explains that a school bus schedule has been changed.

Numerous small, but important, services performed around the school by competent student groups often go unnoticed. Aiding Miss Page and Mrs. Griffith, office assistants learn to manage the switchboard, file material and run the ditto machine. Assistants to Mrs. Livingston help with the never-ending job of counting all money passing through the school, while those of Mrs. Hyer and Mr. Baynes record attendance. Helpers of Miss McEntire, Mr. Terry and Mr. Jolley run errands and keep files and records. In the library, assistants check out books, repair volumes and keep the shelves orderly. Fire marshals and hall monitors work to keep the school safe and in order, as cashiers and bookstore workers handle the finances of the cafeteria and supply room.

By carrying out these duties, students give their time and talent to help their classmates of Boone and gain in return practical experience.

Even in this state of organized confusion it seems as though there is always a spare moment or two to visit with friends, stop at a locker or speak with that special someone not seen in at least an hour. As the day advances, exciting experiences and innumerable opportunities are constantly being challenged and accepted. New friendships seem to be formed almost without realization, many of which will continue to grow long after the last strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" have vanished. Topics such as current fads, sports and dating repeatedly enter nearly every conversation. As these school hours grow into days; days, into months; and months, into the third and final year at Boone, students cannot help being thankful for the wonderful opportunity they have had in constituting a part of an American high school.

Yuletide decorations appear on the campus not by magic but by the labors of art adviser Perry Kelly and his students.

David Pope takes a normal teen-age position hoping for accurate answers during psychological part of Senior Tests.

Planetarium facts appear to interest Larry Williams as he listens to an explanation by local curator Dallas Madron.

"Not so high!" exclaims Jerry Cowherd. Pete Dunaway, playing a typical teen-age joke, turns the water on full blast.

Exhausted from being on the march, Stan Olive rests after a hectic day's rehearsal for the Cherry Blossom Festival.

Civitan Sweetheart, Dee Flowers, receives a congratulatory kiss from Mr. Kelly, club sponsor. Russ Ferguson looks on.

Talking about "this, that, and the other," Ray West keeps Ann Hilton engrossed during some spare moments on campus.

Colors and composition occupy the minds of Dennis Phillips and Jackie Allen as they view a recent school art exhibit.

Hair coloring and mascara, applied by Trish Dougherty, complete Richard Mathews' make-up for the annual senior play.

"Um-m-m good," remark the Boone and Edgewater cheerleaders at annual Morrison's dinner preceding the "big" game.

← Piggy back rides seem to be fashionable as new Wheel Club initiates Andy Anderson and Bob Barfield ably demonstrate.

ACTIVITIES CONTINUED

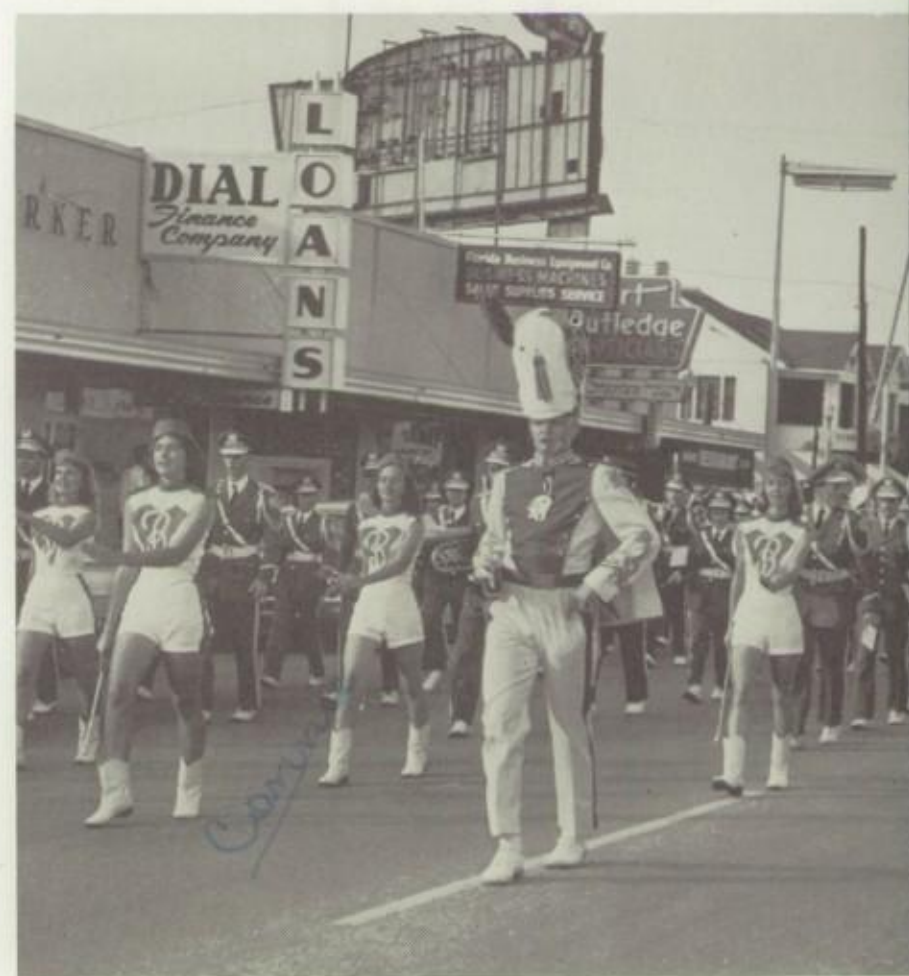

Having little difficulty getting into the swing of things, Boone students seem to enjoy appearing on local television.

One of six panels destined for the newly painted auditorium gets careful attention from Rusty Contella and Lee Partin.

← Cheering wildly for "a basket, a basket," at the Boone vs. Ocala game, Brave students scream out their team support.

Strutting down the middle of Orange Avenue, the Boone band and majorette corps get well into the spirit of the Home-

Auto Mechanics building before and after a much needed face lifting. Cement blocks now enclose the once open-air work area, making practical application of study more pleasant.

Identical or fraternal—Boone students come in many varieties—noisy, quiet, quick, slow, short, tall and "doubles."

Intramural football games after school encourage healthful competition and good sportsmanship among boys' gym classes.

"Cha-cha-cha," croons a football players' quartet in sweet tribute to Boone's gridiron coaches, O'Brien and Shumaker.

Teachers, too, need a refreshing after-school pick-up, temporarily leaving strict curriculum and supervisory duties.

← Foreign cars, determined not to be stamped out by Detroit, draft Camille Dillard, Claire Cameron and Shirley Stafford.

1959 SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS—FRONT ROW: Gwynette Grier (State Board Scholastic Preparation of Teachers Award, Rollins Award); Evelyn Shattler (State Nursing Award); Judy Cox (Brenau College Physical Education Award); Beverly Barker (Earlham College Honorary Merit Scholarship); Noel Massey (Three-year Orange Memorial Women's Auxiliary Award, State Nursing Award); Ruth Wineberger (State Teaching Award); Diane Hoequist (Four-year University of Florida Accompanist Award, Four-year Stetson Music Award). SECOND ROW: Peggy Schmidt (State Teaching Award); Bill Kownacki (Merit Scholarship, Rollins Award); Jack Parker (Martin Co. go away to school next year and if I do I want you to write! I'm so happy that you're in Madamoville because I know that next year will really be a roundy one.

Step forward a few decades to the latter part of the Renaissance. Wander through Florence, Italy, a large city of handsome squares faced by stone palaces. Halt at the entrance of an art shop. Inside, an old master, holding palette and brush, creates on canvas the likeness of a model seated in the light-flooded room. Scattered about are objects which show the development of culture since 1400—a drama program, a musical score, a book—all evidence of the great strides made in the use of printing.

Just as methods of printing have improved, so have methods of reproducing an image in picture form. Although hours of sitting were once necessary to capture one's likeness, the process can now be done in a few seconds, resulting in a picture to be treasured for years to come. Portraits of friends and classmates will always recall happy experiences shared at Boone.

Junior Themes Prove

Carrots, cabbages, cucumbers—are the Junior Officers making a stew? No, but corsages to grace masculine lapels at the Twirp Twirl. Demonstrating their ingenuity are Bill Lane, Charles Hall, Memie Thomas, Eddie Welch.

JUNIORS . . .

1960 Juniors—a class working and waiting. Accepting the challenge, many juniors took advantage of special courses and Merit Scholarship tests. Plane geometry, American History and research themes all combined to round out busy schedules.

Besides academics, juniors found their extra time filled with many projects. Sponsoring three dances, they were pressed to find novel themes for each. Both Ivey's Day and the junior play also increased their treasury. Finally came the event toward which juniors had boosted their budget—the Jr.-Sr. Prom. Much preparation resulted in an evening to be remembered long after the last strains of music had died.

Now expectant juniors awaited a year even better than the one past, a year in which they would at last attain that coveted title—Seniors.

Seniors Thoughtfully Recall

Senior Year—a time of viewing sights never really seen before, of understanding emotions never wholly felt in times past, of discovering potentials never realized until then. Events which had seemed unimportant suddenly took on new meaning; and seniors found themselves more acutely aware of world, national and community situations. They followed with interest the controversial visit of Russia's Nikita Khrushchev to the United States and his conference with President Eisenhower. First photographs of the "other side of the moon" and well-publicized quiz program investigations immediately came to the attention of alert seniors, while the national census made the class of 1960 realize how much their great nation had expanded. With the county-wide vote in favor of a millage increase came the hope of better school facilities for future classes. Then too, the nearness of Cape Canaveral and other scientific installations continued to stimulate the search for additional knowledge.

Within Boone hard-working seniors achieved their own lunch line, parking lot and monthly assemblies. Enjoying the best football record in the school's history, spirited seniors took part in bus-a-cades and motorcades to games. Well-rounded seniors combined hours of study with outside activities—club meetings, school dances, social gatherings at the Youth Center. As the year drew to a close, reminiscent seniors reflected on the little things they would remember after leaving Boone—the shadow of themselves caught in underclassmen, the high spirit of pep rallies, conferences with understanding advisers and teachers, the rush of feeling with the singing of the Alma Mater, the moments of happiness shared with friends or that special someone.

Then all at once came the ending of one life and the beginning of another, the transition from adolescence to adulthood—Graduation. Seniors looked hopefully toward a bright future of marriage, college or career. So concluded twelve years of study. So culminated that time of viewing, understanding, discovering. So ended this memorable Senior Year.

To immortalize their names in cement, seniors each bought a square in the Senior Sidewalk into which they pressed significant symbols.

ADVERTISING...

Return to 1960. Stroll down Orange Avenue, Orlando, Florida, or any Main Street, U.S.A. Hurrying by is the modern, aggressive businessman, better informed than any of his ancestors. The daily on the corner newsstand, the magazine in the drugstore rack, the reporter on radio and television, the billboard on the highway—all communicate knowledge to that businessman. How difficult it is to realize that these communication media evolved from a primitive bison, scrawled on a rough cave wall.

With the development of communication through the printed word came a greater need for better understanding. Finding improved ways to meet that need, today's advertising adapts itself to the changing times. Advertising offers more abundant opportunity than ever before for enlightenment, understanding and growth.

Semi-abstract design suggesting that the printed word provides many opportunities for progress in each facet of life.

The new world! It meant many things to different explorers, but for Ponce de Leon it signified the chance of finding the legendary Fountain of Youth. Here he thought the refreshing waters of the fountain would give him perpetual life.

Moderns know that the fountain was only a myth; but for the same type of cool refreshment that Ponce de Leon sought, they need only to go as far as their nearest grocery store or Pepsi machine. Remember—be sociable, have a Pepsi.

San Juan Coach House

"Tabard Inn! All out!" With the driver's welcomed cry, hungry passengers emptied the coach and streamed into an old English inn for a hearty meal.

Just as these inns satisfied their patrons, so the San Juan Coach House now satisfies the taste of the most particular gourmet. For a large variety of attractive, taste-tempting dishes, make your "next stop" the Coach House.

BATES MEN'S STORE

In 18th Century England the popular Beau Brummel was definitely the "man about town" in London. Considered a wit and always well dressed, he gained favor with the Prince of Wales and became prominent in court.

Though a modern day courtier does not dress to please royalty, he can have an impressive supply of wearing apparel to suit any occasion if he shops at Bates Men's Store. Clothes make the man . . . if they are from Bates.

SOUTHERN BELL TEL. AND TEL. CO.

For long-distance communication the Indian certainly had the right idea. He needed only a fire and a blanket for his code of smoke to be seen for miles. But, if his code was known to the enemy, his messages were no longer secret.

Since Alexander Bell invented the telephone, the transmitting of messages has become more private and reliable, particularly when relayed by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company. For work or pleasure, telephone calls are fast and personal . . . and cost so little with Southern.

What were the "pet banks"? Because in 1836 President Jackson did not wish to recharter the National Bank, all United States funds were deposited in state banks. These became known as "pet banks" due to the special favor bestowed upon them.

Since everyone is still particular where his money is safeguarded, he welcomes the modern facilities employed at Colonial Bank of Orlando. Make your "pet bank" Colonial where drive-in tellers help to make banking more convenient.

FLYNN'S Cabinet Shop

Take Mr. Cave Man. Whenever he wanted to store supplies for safekeeping, he simply dug a hole and buried them. Because of weather and wild beasts he was never sure that his goods would be there when he returned.

Nowadays you do not have to worry about losing your supplies to the elements or animals. Keep your food secure and your belongings close at hand. Buy modern, well-built, beautifully designed cabinets from Flynn's Cabinet Shop.

THE HOUSTON CORPORATION

Natives of early Iran burned natural gas as it issued from cracks in rocks. They believed it was a wonder and presented it in tribute to their fire-god.

Though this kind of gas was once wasted, it is now useful to millions of people. For the first time Orlando and Winter Park can enjoy the benefits of natural gas. Serving city gas since 1887, The Houston Corporation is now offering natural gas, which signifies an ever wider service to man.

Daniel Defoe, author of Robinson Crusoe, first suggested in 1697 that a bank, specializing in savings, be established. It was not until 1816, however, that the United States founded its first savings bank.

Savings and loan associations are now used nationally. Orlando has one of the best in First Federal Savings and Loan Association. Save at First Federal, Orange County's oldest and largest.

L. M. SMITH'S

Men's and Boys' Wear

According to primeval legends, King Arthur of the Round Table represented the ideal virtues of knighthood. Chivalry, courage and a dashing appearance helped him to capture the heart of the Lady Guinevere, who later became his queen.

Although you might not be so successful in your ventures with fair damsels, you may look the part of a genuine knight with the best armor you can purchase at L. M. Smith's. For coats, pants, shirts and accessories check at L. M. Smith's.

At the school studio—the Haney twins and William Henningsen

William Henningsen

Portrait Artist and Photographer

Cameras of the 1700's could produce a vague likeness of a person only if he held his position rigidly for three minutes.

Today, in a much shorter time, you can expect the finest, most carefully posed portrait, whether in oils or a photograph, from William Henningsen—your official school photographer.

FOOTE & DAVIES, INC.

764 MIAMI CIRCLE, N. E.

ATLANTA 24, GEORGIA

Spreading light in the Dark Ages, the printing press, invented by Johann Gutenberg, became one of the most important factors in giving birth to the Renaissance. It made possible the quick and accurate reproduction of handwritten manuscripts which otherwise would have perished.

Even in this Space Age people still rely on the printed word to bring them knowledge. Serving people since 1887, Foote & Davies, Inc., has specialized in the production of superior college and high school annuals. Reliable printers, lithographers and book manufacturers, Foote & Davies, Inc., is an outstanding name in the printing industry.

PLEASE

have been just wonderful to me. All our little talks and all have really been fun. I hope that we will continue to love them, Cause man we really have had some problems, huh! Between - - - - - and - - - - - we really have had our troubles. I also want to tell you that I just think you are great and I always will. I just wish I could be half the lady you are and have half of that personality that you have. Don't tell you how much you have done for me and how much I think of you but it's an awful lot I can say that much. I hope we can really have ~~for~~ a blast together this summer (and I'm going to get a darker tan than you, so there) I sure hope you will always be my friend (even if you do get discassaded with me) All my Love Masty (no MAD)

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

As we skimmed over the centuries, seeking knowledge of our great heritage found in the written and the printed word, we grew more appreciative of the people who have helped us in our quest. Cooperating with us in many helpful ways, these friends have aided in making this yearbook possible. Through their support, we were able to capture in picture and print the annals of 1960—the eighth year in the history of Wm. R. Boone High School. Our thanks go to the following:

W. Harrell Brooks, yearbook representative, assisting in research for the division pages and for his professional help.

Foote & Davies, Inc., for the full color transparencies.

Sentinel Star for some of the sports pictures.

Wm. R. Boone High School Faculty and Administration for their cooperation and varied assistance.

—THE STAFF.

ABOUT THE ARTIST—

Ferdinand Warren, N. A., who painted the mural depicting the evolution of the written and printed word through the centuries for Foote & Davies, Inc., was chosen for his many-sided skill and profound knowledge of the history of written language and the printed word. Chairman of the Department of Art at Agnes Scott College and a widely known American artist, Mr. Warren has won national recognition and an imposing list of honors and awards. Examples of his works may be found in many of America's notable private collections and in the permanent collections of museums from coast to coast. These include the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City and the Atlanta Museum of Art.

Dear Sweetie!
Well, where do I begin? Sally, I really hate to leave B.H.S. because my senior year has been my "best" year. I guess you know why? I sincerely hope your junior year has been as wonderful as mine has been.

Sally, I'll never ever forget all the many times we have talked to - gether, not only about Leslie & Phillip but other things too. In a way you have made me closer to Phillip & I love you for it. I think I love him Sally, but there's so much between P. & I that people don't know that makes our future somewhat hazy.

You're a wonderful gal & my favorite junior (C.S. too) you're sweet & I remember I love you & wish you the very best in life as long as it's good to a really terrific gal! I hope you'll never forget me, as I'll never forget you.

Call me &

Love Always,
Mary-Sue

Please come see me this summer.

You better write me next yr.

Sally! I haven't known you since the I consider you the best of every thing because I gave a great friend because I gave you as my success. Best of luck always and have fun in your senior year.
Love,
Sally Harmon

Sally,

The very best to one of the greatest gals I know. I can't put into words how I feel about your friendship and just you. God bless you richly.

Dear Sally,

Here's wishing all the luck in the world to a real sweet (?) and cute girl. Even though I'm only known you for a short while, I realize that I, who am lucky, have come to know one of the nicest girls I've ever known.
We've really had a lot of fun
this year, especially in Sunday School (ha! ha!). May God bless you in whatever you do in your life's venture. Best wishes from our friend to another, and play it cool during the summer.

Love always,

Sally

Well, here goes another year, but it sure has been great especially English class. English would have been pretty dull if you hadn't been there to brighten things up with that southern accent of yours. When I hear "Sally Stanton," I think of one of the sweetest girls I know.

Best of everything Always.

Sally,

Well I don't know ^{all good too I think!!} where to start, because there is a lot I could say. It really has been great knowing you this year, we have really had some great times together. Remember the good Ole Youth Center where we don't do a damn thing but it's fun, and all the parties, when we don't get there till 10:00! 10:00??

I guess I'd better say something nice because you are supposed to (I think). No really you have just a darlin personality with the looks to go with it.

I know you will have the best of luck where ever you go or do. So be good and stay sweet. ^{LOVE}

Sally - (Bubbles, Eagle, Speedy).

Well, Booger, ~~a~~ a whole year has flown by & just think next year we are seniors. (at least I'll be, now I don't know about you). You know Sally, all kidding aside, I've only known you a little while compared to some of my other good friends, but to tell you the truth you mean just as much or more to me than some of them. I honestly & truly consider you one of the cutest & nicest & sweetest & ugliest girls I've ever known. You've got a WONDERFUL personality & there's been times when I'm about ready to jump down somebody's throat & then you come along & cheer me up. Like the night you came over and rang the doorbell at 11:00. (really 10:00) Boy I was so mad at you know who & I was gonna really give it to her the next day at school but then after I'd finished talking to you I knew I was just being silly & I just forgot all about it.

Sally, I always hope you have the best of luck wherever you might be. You know what, since you came to Orlando everything sure has been hopping around here & don't you ever feel out of place or funny cause you have no reason too cause everyone loves you. (mushy, huh). They really do Sally. (but you know that). Sally, that's about all I can think of to say & besides you can't really put all your feelings in an annual - they're all inside of you & believe me my feelings for you have & always will be good cause you are a WONDERFUL person. Stay happy & LIVE, LIVE, LIVE while you still have the chance. (as Billy Jo says). CHA, CHA, CHA & POO POO, PEE, DOOP. Oh by the way when are you gonna call me & bring me records back (just kidding). Love always, Annie Lammie

Dear Sally,
 It was loads of fun
 being in the same Home
 Ec. Class with you this year. You're a great cooking companion.

Sally.
 It has been a pleasure trying to help you in V.B. Lane Security this past year
 but I guess I just missed
 you. God Bless you
 Bob

Dear Sally Eagle,

Well, girl, this year is almost gone but I sure do have a lot of wonderful things to remember! I do, don't you think so? I'm so glad that started going around with us or I'd probably never have known you, not very well anyway. I am so glad and proud that I'm one of your many friends and you sure have a bunch!

I'll never forget all of our great times together! And that time I spent the night with you, then the next day ya'll surprised me so! You were a wreck! and I finally learned how to ski! You have been such a good friend, listening to all my troubles and all.

You sure do have a great personality. One that everyone admires, respects! I'm real happy for you cause you got into MAA and Graduation week, ect., ect., ect.! You are a darlin' gal (shut up) and your personality (as I said before) is just great!

I really do appreciate all the nice things you've done for me! You have been a true friend and you know that I think the world of you! I want to wish you the best of everything cause you truly deserve the best! God bless you always!

Love
Annie

Sally Wally,

Good luck in everything you do!

Love Ya,

Jeannie

P.S. It's been just wonderful since you've been here. We've really had a blast of all those rowdy surprise parties & P. Skins??
Well, at least trying, & I'm a real doll & I'll with so much personality & always flowing all over the place, you really light up everyone's dark days. Keep on being the fabulous girl you are now & you won't get anywhere!!
I'm kidding & with your charm
you'll get everything, there is no

Sally,
you the greatest
I really have enjoyed being in your life.
Your over the moon
girls I've met in Boone. I sure hope we become better friends in the next years. I really have enjoyed meeting you! Hope we get in the same class
next year.
Love Always
